Commissioners, city eye problem

CETA funds pondered for local dog control

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

Help may be on its way for Fayette County residents, who often find unpleasant surprises while walking across their lawns or discover their garbage cans overturned.

Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter is planning to meet with the Fayette County Board of Commissioners to discuss the dog control problem in the county.

The commissioners are hoping to secure funds under the newly developed Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program, which is administered by the city. There are about $200,000 in federal funds available for employing county residents, who are out of work.

"We're definitely going to have to put several people on this dog problem," Ray D. Warner, chairman of the county board of commissioners, said Monday.

Presently, the county has one man, the dog warden, patrolling the county for unleashed and unlicensed dogs. This means the dog warden, Reginald (Chink) Davis, must cover the entire county by himself.

"We're spreading one man pretty thin," Warner said.

Davis has had assistants, who carry the titles of deputy dog wardens, in the past. Presently, there is no assistant due to a lack of funds.

All county money for dog control must come from the dog and kennel fund, Warner pointed out. This money comes from the sale of county dog licenses, and there is just not enough money available to hire additional help which admittedly is needed.

"We're talking two people," Warner said in reference to the possible CETA assistance.

Warner contacted Shapter Monday afternoon

following the weekly commissioners meeting and asked the city manager to look into the possible use of CETA funds. A meeting was scheduled for next Monday at 2 p.m. in the Courthouse between three commissioners and Shapter.

Shapter has been interested in curbing the number of stray dogs in Washington C.H. for sometime. Washington C.H. City Council has received numerous complaints in the past about dogs running loose and scattering garbage.

When the new CETA program got off the ground last month, Shapter told Council that "two, possibly three people" could be hired with the federal funds for dog control purposes. He added that the main problem in introducing a program to the city was the lack of equipment such as a vehicle.

Davis, who has jurisdiction over Washington C.H. as well as the county when it comes to dog control matters, has a vehicle supplied by the county commissioners. Warner told Shapter Monday by telephone that a county vehicle could possibly be secured for any additional help hired through CETA.

Shapter and Washington C.H. residents are not the only ones concerned over the stray dog problem. Jeffersonville has taken steps of its own to enforce a village ordinance on animal control.

Numerous complaints had been received by the village council from Jeffersonville residents concerning the animal problem for the past two months.

Last week, the village council members agreed to strictly enforce the ordinance. The law gives the village authority to impound and destroy without notice to the owner any dog that is not muzzled or on a leash in a public place or street.

In response to the village council's concern, the commissioners Monday asked the dog warden to spend more time in Jeffersonville.

Permanent tax cut eyed instead

GOP wants to block rebates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Out-numbered House Republicans are hoping to pick up enough Democratic votes to junk President Carter's proposed $50-perperson rebate and give Americans a permanent tax cut instead.

Several Democrats share the GOP's distaste for the rebate, but there is no indication that enough will switch votes to kill the rebate and hand Carter a major defeat. A similar Republican effort was defeated last month, 258 to 148.

The vote on the Republican proposal is expected to be the last preliminary question before the House was to decide late today on a tax cut aimed at stimulating the economy. House approval of the tax-cut package would send the measure to the Senate, where the Finance Committee scheduled hearings on the plan today.

The rebates for an estimated 200 million Americans are the key element of Carter's tax-cut plan.

Carter also wants to raise the standard deduction, which would mean a permanent tax cut averaging $105 for 45 million couples or individuals. Some 88 per cent of the tax cut would go to families or persons with incomes under $15,000, but the 31 per cent of taxpayers who itemize deductions would get no benefits.

As a substitute for the Carter rebate, the House Republican Conference wants to permanently cut tax rates across the board, targeting the reductions on middle- and upper-income families regardless of whether they itemize or use the standard deduction.

Under the GOP plan, 67 per cent of the money would go to those with incomes under $20,000; 11 per cent would go to persons earning more than $30,000 a year.

This would result in a $121 tax cut for a single person earning $10,000 a year; a $185 cut for a family of four earning $15,000, and a $250 cut for a four-member family earning $25,000.

Why a permanent tax cut instead of the rebate?

"Give somebody $50 and he'll spend it on something costing $50 or maybe $100," reasons a House Republican aide. "But give him a permanent tax cut — something he can count on for a long time — and he'll buy a car or some other big purchase that will really help the economy."

Republicans note that efforts to prevent some persons from getting two $50 checks will cause such a delay that some rebates won't even be mailed until late July or August.

That delay obviously would work against the aim of the rebates: to give the economy a quick infusion of cash.

DEMOLITION CONTINUES — A wrecker's ball smashes into a wall of the former Washington Hotel on N. Main Street Monday as demolition crews continued to raze the 66-year-old Washington C.H. landmark. The three-story structure, constructed in 1911, is being razed by the Cartwright Refuse Removal Co. for owner Frank J. Weade. Demolition work was temporarily suspended during the winter months. The building has been vacant since last August.

District receives increased gas allocation

Rose Avenue, Cherry Hill students may return to buildings March 21

There was some indication at Monday night's Washington C. H. Board of Education meeting that the displaced students from Cherry Hill and Rose Avenue elementary schools will be returning to their respective buildings soon.

Monday, March 21, was the date mentioned for the reopening of the two school buildings which were closed last month because of the natural gas crisis. The students have been attending classes in the Washington C. H. Middle School.

Board president Robert N. Highfield said the Dayton Power and Light Co. has given the district 60 per cent of its 1972 monthly natural gas allocation.

Three buildings, the two closed elementary schools and Washington Senior High School, are heated by natural gas. Fuel allocation for the buildings was sharply cut last month forcing the closing of the two elementary school buildings.

Even though the increased allocation has been granted, the board has been reluctant to reopen the schools until it is sure no further closings will be necessary.

The March 21 reopening will come one day after the winter heating period instituted by Dayton Power and Light Co. ends. A new allocation schedule will then be instituted, and it appears to be a safe time to reopen the two buildings for the remainder of the year.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor told the board that books and materials used by the elementary students during their temporary stay at the Middle School will be moved to the closed buildings Saturday, March 19.

While the city school district has appeared to overcome this winter's natural gas crisis, steps are being taken to assure that a similar shortage in future winters will not cause major problems.

At last month's meeting the board discussed converting the heating system at the senior high school to a dual system similar to the Middle School. The Middle School's heating system can burn both natural gas and fuel oil.

The board gave Nestor the authority to advertise for bids on the installation of the new system at Monday night's meeting.

Black gunman gives whites seven days to leave planet

CLEVELAND (AP) — Authorities contacted the White House today in an effort to reach President Carter for a telephone conference demanded by a man holding a policeman hostage a second day, Warrensville Heights Police Chief Craig Merchant said.

Merchant said Cory Moore, 25, who was armed with his own pistol as well as that of the officer he took captive Monday afternoon, was tired but calm, even joking with his hostage, Capt. Leo Keglovic.

"We just hope he remains as calm as he has been so far," the chief said.

Moore, a black, has said he wants to free his people from white oppression. Merchant said the ex-Marine and former auto worker expressed dissatisfaction today with what Moore saw as the news media's apparent disregard of his vow to curse the white world if all whites weren't off Earth within seven days.

Moore was watching news reports on a television set police provided early today in exchange for Moore's other hostage, Shelley Kiggans, 17.

Moore said he didn't swap the girl for the TV but rather simply decided to let her go, Merchant said.

Miss Kiggans was taken hostage at gunpoint when Moore pulled a hidden weapon from under a overcoat draped on one arm as he waited in a traffic bureau line in the suburb's city hall. Moore also fired twice at that time, and Keglovic was captured when he responded to the gunfire, police said. Police headquarters are in the same building, and officers quickly surrounded the office in which Moore held Keglovic and Miss Kiggans.

Police said he triggered another shot later when they sent food to the hostages with Moore's permission, though Moore disdained the food as possibly having been poisoned or drugged. No one was hurt.

At first Moore would only talk to black newsmen, who quoted the gunman as saying he wanted white people to leave the planet within seven days and take with them "their guns, bombs, bullets and ignorance."

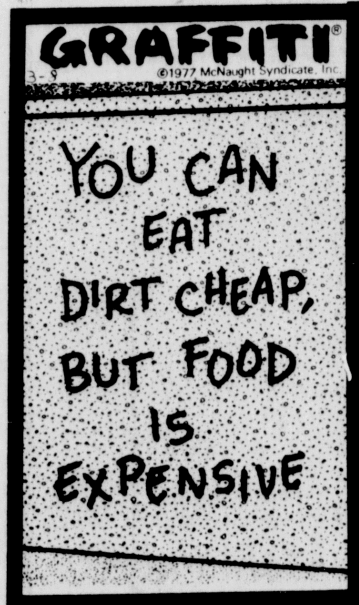

Later Moore agreed to speak with police Chief Craig Merchant, who said Moore told him he would "place a curse upon the planet if white people didn't leave within seven days." Merchant said Moore also said he wanted to talk with President Carter.

Almost 11 hours after the seige began, Moore released Miss Kiggans, a high school senior who works part-time in the traffic fine bureau. She said Moore had walked up to her window and brandished a handgun he hid under

School boards guilty of bias

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A federal court judge has found the Columbus city and state boards of education guilty of fostering racial segregation in the 96,000-student Columbus school district.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Duncan said, based on the trial evidence, he agreed with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the plaintiffs, that "defendants have, by their actions and omissions, intentionally caused racial segregation in the Columbus schools."

Duncan said a "significant part of the Columbus Public Schools was intentionally segregated on the basis of race at the time of the now-famous Brown (vs. Topeka, Kan. Board of Education) decision in 1954."

"The Columbus Board of Education has never taken action which effectively corrected the continuing impact of this dual system and the board, during the post 1954 period has maintained and even enhanced racial imbalance, in the schools..."

The 86-page decision in the case of Gary Penick, a black Columbus student, against the schools and others, did not propose a remedy to the situation.

But Duncan gave officials of Ohio's second largest school district 90 days to propose their own remedy to segregation in time for the 1977-1978 school year.

For large commercial, industrial users

DP&L eases gas curtailments

DAYTON, Ohio — The Dayton Power and Light Co. has eased the natural gas curtailment to over 900 large commercial, industrial and governmental customers.

In a letter to these customers, the Dayton Power and Light Co. explained that its supply situation has further improved because of continued conservation by all customers in its 24-county service area and warmer than normal weather conditions in the past few weeks.

Because of the improved situation, non-domestic customers whose use of natural gas exceeded 5,000 ccf in any one month in 1972 may use up to 60 per cent of their winter base period allocation. The increased usage permission became effective Monday.

Large commercial and industrial users who have exceeded, or will exceed 60 per cent of their winter period allocation, and who do not purchase alternate fuel, are required to remain at plant protection levels until the date of their March meter reading, the company said.

Following the March meter reading, these customers have been advised to stay at 60 per cent of their 1972 monthly entitlement until further notice.

Duel fuel and alternate boiler fuel customers continue to be curtailed 100 per cent at this time, the company said.

Deaths, Funerals

Mrs. Addie B. Miller

GREENFIELD — Mrs. Addie B. Miller, 77, of Greenfield, died at 1 a.m. Tuesday at the home of her son in Columbus.

Born in Tyler County, W. Va., Mrs. Miller was a former school teacher in Greenfield and Athens County and was a retired beautician. She was a member of the Greenfield First United Methodist Church, the Eastern Star at Athens, the Greenfield Mothers Club and the Business and Professional Womens Club. She was a graduate of Ohio University, Athens.

She is survived by a daughter, Miss Bonnadine Miller, of Greenfield; a son, Lynn Miller, of Columbus; five grandchildren; and three sisters, Mrs. Florence Bertsch, of Cincinnati, Mrs. Laura Parmiter, of Athens, and Mrs. Edith Bobo, Van Nuys, Calif. She was preceded in death by two sisters and four brothers.

Services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Friday in the Anderson-Struve Funeral Home, Greenfield, with the Rev. Clarence Dinnen officiating. Burial will be in the Asbury Methodist Church cemetery, near Athens.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 4 until 9 p.m. Thursday.

Clair Clemans

LIMA — Clair Clemans, 83, of Lima, was pronounced dead upon arrival at 1:30 p.m. Monday at a Lima hospital.

Mr. Clemans was a retired railroad employe and self-employed construction worker. His wife, Chloe, died in 1972.

He is survived by a son, Wilbur Clemans, of Lima; two daughters, Mrs. Mary West Stroh, of Wapakoneta, formerly of Washington C.H., and Mrs. Maxine Flanagan of Venice, Fla.; nine grandchildren, including Mrs. Cheryl Mitchell, of Washington C.H., and Mrs. Nancy Wright, of Atlanta, Ga., formerly of Washington C.H., and 19 great-grandchildren.

Services will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday in the Chiles and Son Memorial Chapel, Lima. Burial will be in a Lima cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 until 9 p.m. tonight and anytime Wednesday.

an overcoat draped over his arm. Police said that Moore fired three shots but no one was hurt.

After her release, Miss Kiggins said Moore didn't threaten to hurt anyone, but did tie their arms and legs at times.

"He's just a normal man out for one thing," Miss Kiggins said. "He wants to get his message out to the people."

She said Moore "just kept talking about how he wanted to end discrimination and free his people."

Moore, a student at Cuyahoga Community College, released the young woman in exchange for a television set and a tape of the late night news. Police also added that he talked about having a news conference.

Moore refused to talk to any of his relatives, including his estranged wife, Veronica, his father and an uncle, who were brought to city hall. A cousin, Claude Martin, said Moore has a 4-year-old son, and a 2-year-old daughter.

Randall Fitch, a friend of Moore's who came to city hall but did not get to talk to him, said "he's got his head together but he's always felt that white people were against him."

Fitch said he and Moore had played chess last weekend and that Moore told him then he was going to hold some sort of demonstration on Monday. But he did not specify further.

Meanwhile, the wife of the remaining hostage said her husband could take care of himself and that being a policeman is "his whole life and he never wanted the family to worry about anything."

Carter, Rabin in surprise meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is meeting for a third, originally unscheduled session with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin of Israel, who is asking Carter to guarantee Israel's strength to stand alone against its adversaries.

Rabin is meeting with Carter today at the White House. He was invited to lunch with members of Congress and scheduled a news conference later in the day at Blair House, the government guest residence across from the White House.

The prime minister said he was gratified by Carter's endorsement Monday of "defensible borders" for Israel. But Rabin asked the President during a "working dinner" Monday night to "make sure that Israel's strength will allow it to defend itself by itself."

Rabin attended the dinner after meeting with Defense Secretary Harold Brown. The prime minister wants 250 F16 air combat fighters and assurance the Carter administration will honor former President Gerald R.

Ford's promise of new see-in-the-dark devices for airplanes.

The Air Force has been reluctant to grant Israel's request to supply some of the F16s and has been equally reluctant to run the risk of letting the nightvision technology fall into adversary hands on a captured Israeli jet.

Rabin was smarting because of Carter's reversal last month of Ford's commitment to sell Israel concussion bombs and over Carter's veto of Israel's request to sell 24 of its Kfir jet fighters, powered by U.S. engines, to Ecuador.

Pentagon officials said they didn't expect Rabin to make any new weapons requests, but Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz has said his country is looking for a replacement for the concussion bombs.

Rabin also is believed to have discussed implications of the decision to stop the sale of Kfir fighters. Nationalist China is said to be considering the plane to replace its U.S.-made F104s. If it chooses the Israeli plane, Carter will be faced with another Kfir decision.

Today's meeting between Rabin and Carter was not on the State Department's original schedule for the prime minister's visit. But White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Monday afternoon that the third meeting "has been a possibility all along."

He and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance also tried to minimize the significance of Carter's assurances that his concept of an over-all Middle East settlement includes "defensible borders" for Israel.

The President gave the assurances in a welcoming speech for Rabin and added that permanent peace entails "a sense of security about this young country in the future."

But Vance said afterward: "There's no change of position by use of the words 'defensible borders.' There was no geographical connotation, and it is not inconsistent with our position" on the U.N. Security Council resolution that calls for a negotiated settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict. That resolution assures all Middle East states "secure and recognized boundaries."

Ohio Senate takes up budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee began informal consideration of the Rhodes Administration's $14.5 billion budget bill Monday night although it will not leave the House for several weeks.

Senate chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, and the panel heard an "overview" of the big spending document from Budget and Management Director William W. Wilkins. As he had told the House, Wilkins said it is a no-frills document which is balanced and does not require new taxes.

Meshel said the advance session, and others that will follow, are designed to speed hearings on the measure which is needed to finance state operations for the next biennium starting July 1.

Earlier, House Finance chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-89 Bourneville, said he didn't expect the budget to reach the floor of that chamber until midor late-April. Subsections of the House panel have been going over departmental requests for nearly a month.

The Senate returned from weekend recess for a Monday night floor session but had no bills up for action. House members were returning today but were slated to vote only on a couple of routine measures.

Meshel's committee heard testimony on two other House bills Monday night.

It recommended passage unanimously of a measure that allows the Controlling Board to recoup emergency funds released to state agencies to resolve unforeseen contingencies.

Under existing law, funds released by the board are later placed by the

A LIMITED number of tickets for the Miami Trace-Cambridge district basketball tournament game Friday will go on sale from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at the high school.

Sponsors said the legislation will help the seven-member Controlling Board maintain the state's all purposes emergency funds. It uses the funds to pay for such things as Ohio National Guard and other costs during disasters—this year's winter storms, for example.

Robert P. Ziegler, director of the Ohio Student Loan Commission, urged Meshel's committee to approve a second House measure that expands the loan program to include 100 per cent guarantees for loans. The same measure would enable nonresident students at Ohio colleges to receive loans from financial institutions in the state

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Paul C. Warnke is confirmed as chief U.S. disarmament negotiator, the Carter administration could have trouble winning ratification of any agreement he reaches with the Soviets, Senate opponents say.

The debate over Warnke continues today, with votes set for Wednesday on Warnke's twin appointments to be chief strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) negotiator and director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

The issue of whether Warnke's nomination might jeopardize any new SALT agreement cropped up during the second day of debate Monday.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., told the Senate that Warnke's

reputation as a "dove" in opposing major U.S. nuclear weapons programs raises a "credibility gap."

"Any proposed treaty will be in jeopardy before it even comes to the Senate floor," Schweiker asserted. "In the end, Mr. Warnke himself would become the issue in any Senate ratification proceedings rather than the merits of any treaty he might negotiate."

Disagreement was voiced by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

They said any treaty to replace the five-year interim SALT agreement expiring Oct. 3 will be examined on its own merits regardless of who does the negotiating.

Stocks make new gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market worked its way ahead today, continuing the rally of the past several sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about 2 points in the early going, and gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted no special news behind the market's strength. Rather, they said, traders seemed to have concluded from the market's steady showing lately that early-1977 selling pressure had abated.

Today's early prices included Ford Motor, down 1/4 at 59; Champion Spark Plug, ahead 1/4 at 12 3/4, and S.S. Kresge, up 1/4 at 35 1/2.

Kresge reported that its earnings for the quarter ended Jan. 26 rose to 88 cents a share from 81 cents in the comparable year-ago period.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 1.66 advance to 955.12 for its third straight gain.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 5-4 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totalled 17.41 million shares, against 18.95 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .04 to 55.02.

Job openings in space

Space has thus far been the exclusive domain of astronauts. When the space shuttles begin operating, this will change. In addition to shuttle pilots especially trained for this work, the typical mission will include both "mission specialists" to oversee experiments in progress, and scientists whose particular skills are needed for some experiments.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to recruit 15 mission specialists and at least 15 pilots. The deadline for applications is June 30, and already some 1,300 have been received.

Not just anyone will be able to go; the qualifications are rigorous. Yet this recruiting program can be seen as the dawn of an era when many different kinds of people will be venturing and doing specialized work in the limitless provinces of space.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

The gas crisis and common sense

In the South, where I spent the last week in February, they think the people of the Northeast are crazy. And this, despite the natural sympathy that is felt in the Gulf states for Yankees who have suffered through the worst winter in memory.

The evidence that the Northeast is susceptible to contagious idiocy involves liberal journalists, New York Daily News polls takers, and a Federal judge, Jack B. Weinstein. Together, this little band of serious thinkers has, in its response to the energy crisis, been standing Aristotelian logic on its head.

The liberal journalists (such as Jack Anderson and Pete Hamill) are convinced that the big oil and gas majors have been sitting on their sources of natural gas in hopes of capitalizing on a future price rise. The allegations have convinced some two-thirds of the population in the New York metropolitan area that the natural gas shortage has been artificially contrived. Yet the same oil companies who are accused of holding out on the public when it comes to allocating gas have handed the Federal government some $1.13 billion for oil and gas drilling rights in the Atlantic.

This obvious commitment to an expanded production that would alleviate shortages in the Northeast has been rudely checked by Judge Weinstein's ruling that the claims of the ecologists have not been considered in the leasing. Judge Weinstein, who evidently fancies himself as a geologist, thinks the government has vastly overstated peak oil and gas expectations for the so-called Baltimore Canyon area east of Maryland, and accuses the government of irresponsibility in refusing to grapple with such "specifics" as choosing — in advance of any oil or gas discoveries — between pipeline and tanker transportation of oil from the well head to East Coast ports. (In the nature of things no rational economic choice between pipeline and tanker can come before the amount of available fuel is ascertained. Judge Weinstein has gotten his economics backwards.)

Just why an industry that is willing to pay billions to develop new fields should be sabotaging production in the fields it already possesses is a question that the poll takers fail to ask. Maybe the oil and gas companies would like to get higher prices for Gulf of Mexico gas sold in the interstate market, but the fact is that gas from existing fields, such as the Continental Oil Company's Grand Isle Block 43, is already committed to interstate pipeline customers at present rates.

Shell Oil was so incensed at the charges of withholding made by liberal journalists that it took reporters on a helicopter tour of four of its Gulf of Mexico facilities. The tour showed plenty of activity in new platform building in an area where Shell was investing $104 million since acquiring lease rights in 1974.

According to the Shell management, enough gas to heat 250,000 homes would have been flowing from 25 new wells by this year if only the Federal Power Commission had come through with certification in time. In extension of both the Shell company and the Federal government, it can be said that neither party to the leasing deal foresaw the winter conditions of 1977.

Just how things might be improved by "nationalizing" the gas industry and calling in the Army to oversee production, which is the solution favored by New York City journalist Pete Hamill, is a mystery that passes ordinary understanding. The oil companies, who are not in business for their health, obviously want to make whatever money is available for the natural gas they are committed to deliver anyway. They have no interest in holding back on existing contracts.

Answering Hamill, David H. Foster, the executive vice president of the Washington-based Natural Gas Supply Committee, says that "in virtually every instance where wells have been capped there is a ready and valid explanation. In some cases Federal Power Commission red tape is the cause. In other cases transportation facilities have not been completed by the pipeline purchaser." Bringing in the Army to oversee operations (an Army, incidentally, that Pete Hamill has accused in the past of criminal doings and utter incompetence in South Vietnam) is hardly a technological solution.

Nor do judges help when they refuse to look at the Gulf Coast records for safety in offshore drilling and transportation procedures. The sooner the Northeast stops crying in its beer over the lack of fuel and goes to work drilling for its own sources, the better for everybody in the nation.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth sign.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Past experience may give you the clue to solution of a current problem. Good Mars influence should help you to make fine advances.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

Venus influences excellent. You should be in a zestful mood and well able to produce your best. Organize assistance to put a new idea over the top.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

You are one of those gifted persons who can produce original and unusual ideas when they are most needed. This is your day to shine.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

You'll do best now if you cooperate with the plans of others instead of insisting on your own. Some friction possible otherwise.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

A little snap and bounce won't be amiss now. Put everything in proper proportion; there could be some errors in judgment, so be alert.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You may discern a hint of things to come where your personal ambitions are concerned. Accept advice and support from interested friends.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A generally auspicious day. This is a period in which to give your finest performance, to capitalize on your many talents — especially in creative endeavor.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Day may not seem to hold much opportunity at first, but if you look closely, you will find it has many advantages. Results will be largely up to YOU.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Without much planetary assistance, you can still net top returns but, before acting, plan well, be sure of facts and details, and DON'T procrastinate.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Important now: common sense, logical analysis of all situations, ease of action. Domestic and social interests highly favored. Don't waste time on regrets.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Profit by past mistakes and by sound advice. You have a wonderful chance for accomplishment but day needs the right push, steadiness.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Counting one's blessings makes every picture rosier, but DON'T count returns you have not and MAY NOT receive. Mixed influences: Use care in all things.

YOU BORN TODAY have been endowed with a keen, analytical mind; are scholarly in your inclinations and not only gather knowledge ceaselessly, but impart it ably. You would make an excellent teacher. You have many talents but, as you career along life's byways, you will find that your only real happiness comes through service — which you can render in many ways but, especially, through art, literature and science; also as lecturer, minister, diplomat, reformer or sociologist. Your sympathy for your fellowman is outstanding, but you can be taken in by "sob stories." Care!

Professor takes art to working people

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A maid probably doesn't have much opportunity to discuss her views on art while she cleans the washrooms and makes the beds in a hotel.

And the local filling station attendant isn't expected to be able to carry on a conversation about the fine arts while he changes the oil in his customer's car.

But Prof. Don Celender of the Macalester College art department decided that the views of the average working person might be of interest.

So the professor and a team of students talked with 400 blue collar workers, including maids, clerks, mechanics, bus and truck drivers, cab drivers, secretaries, hotel desk clerks, waitresses, carpenters and street laborers, as they went about their daily tasks.

Their opinions were written up in the study "Opinions of Working People Concerning Art," which was sent to the O.K. Harris Gallery in New York City.

Celender said the survey has drawn varied reactions from art critics and the public, including some who have hailed it as the first "tell it like it is" audience "pulse-feeler" done by the art world in a long time.

Generally, Celender said, the workers interviewed believed that art is necessary to the enjoyment, fulfillment and pleasure of living. A majority also think that tax money should be used to fund artists and art projects, he said.

They are wary about going to art museums and galleries because of what they conceive as the highbrow atmosphere, he said, but nearly all of those questioned visit a museum at least once a year.

Picasso, Dali and Chagall turn a majority of the workers off, and they don't "dig" abstract, modernist and surrealist paintings or sculptures, the study showed.

However, if they could, they would buy as much art for their own enjoyment as they could afford.

"What I wanted to do in this survey is find out whether the man and woman on the street was as square and oblivious to visual arts as the trite and stereotype images we have been given," Celender said.

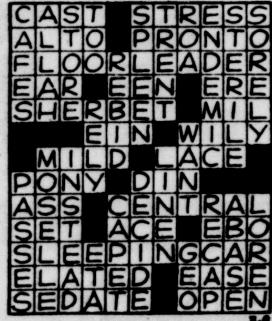

"We found that contrary to the general belief, they like art, enjoy it, feel it worthwhile, know much more than we give them credit for...and, of course, we discovered what we should have known all along: that most of them dabble in it themselves, as Sunday painters or collectors of everything from antiques to Ming vases, and coins, stamps — which, after all, are a form of art."

As a bartender told one interviewer: "Art brings most of us closer to what we really are and what we feel."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give mom reason to stop snooping

DEAR ABBY: I'm 13 and I've had it with my mother. She has absolutely no respect for my personal privacy. When I'm gone she goes through my room, and all my belongings and everything I own.

I've never given her any reason not to trust me, but she asks me where I got every penny of my money, who I've been hanging around with and what they're like.

I've asked her to please stop going through my things, but it doesn't do any good. Please help me but don't send your reply in the mail because she reads my mail, too.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

DEAR OPEN: Violating one's reasonable privacy at any age breeds disrespect, but try to see your mother's side of it. Parents are responsible for their underage children, and your mother is apparently a little nervous about you. Continue to give her no reason to mistrust you, and eventually her confidence will grow and her suspicions cease.

DEAR ABBY: There is a little girl in our neighborhood who likes to bite other children. My children have been bitten by her several times and I am tired of it. I have heard that a human bite can be more serious than a dog's bite. Is that true?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Yes. If the skin has been broken, the victim should be protected against infection by a tetanus shot. Also, antibiotics are recommended, depending on the severity of the bite. A human bite CAN be more serious than an animal bite.

DEAR ABBY: I am married and am the father of two children who are both in grade school.

For seven years I have been seeing (and for the most part supporting) a beautiful woman and her two schoolage children, who are not mine. (I made it clear from the start that I was married, and divorcing my wife was out of the question.)

This woman has decided that we should not see each other anymore because she wants to get married, and her children need a father. I happen to agree with her, but there's one thing we do not agree on. She thinks I should continue to send her checks until she finds a job or a man to support herself and her children. She says that's the least I can do for her.

I say if we stop seeing each other, we stop the whole thing-including the money. She says she can't get along without my financial support, and if I discontinue it while she is in need she will tell all to my wife.

I would feel like a fool sending her money, but it would crush my wife and ruin my marriage if I were ever found out.

I know I've had my cake and eaten it too all these years, but I need your sound advice.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Anyone who is threatened with blackmail, and has as much to lose as you apparently have, should run-not walk-to his lawyer.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, March 8, the 67th day of 1977. There are 298 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1917, riots and a strike in St. Petersburg marked the beginning of the Russian revolution.

On this date:

In 1765, the British House of Lords passed a Stamp Act taxing the American colonies.

In 1865, a canal was begun in the Netherlands to connect Amsterdam with the North Sea.

In 1894, New York became the first state to pass a law requiring dogs to be licensed.

In 1942, the Japanese captured Rangoon, Burma, in World War II.

In 1969, the Soviet Union put its army in the Far East on alert as a warning to China after a frontier clash on the Ussuri River.

In 1970, President Makarios of Cyprus escaped an assassination attempt when terrorist snipers shot down his helicopter.

Ten years ago: Striking Irish farmers demanding higher prices blockaded Dublin and raised the threat of a meat and vegetable shortage in the capital.

Five years ago: President Richard M. Nixon signed an executive order limiting the secrecy surrounding federal documents and restricting the power of officials to classify them.

One year ago: Israel's ambassador to Washington, Simcha Dinitz, publicly criticized the Ford Administration's plans to sell Egypt military transport planes.

Today's birthdays: Actress Cyd Charisse is 54 years old. Pianist Mary Lou Williams is 67.

Thought for today: It is better to have a permanent income than be fascinating. — Oscar Wilde, Irish writer, 1856-1900.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A few years ago, public TV aired a controversial documentary series, "An American Family," showing the gradual breakup of the William Loud family of Santa Barbara, Calif.

On April 4, the Public Broadcasting Service starts a six-part documentary effort, "Six American Families," each clan interviewed at a three-weeks-per-family rate by free-lance writer Paul Wilkes.

But don't consider this an attempt to depict the happiest families of America since, as Wilkes jokingly puts it, "we didn't try to purge the country of Loudism" when filming began in May 1975.

Wilkes, the series' host and writer, says the show simply aimed at recording — with no point of view — the lives and thoughts of a cross-section of America, six families in six regions.

They range from a Polish-American blue collar family in Chicago to a Jewish, upper middle-class tribe torn by marital discord in Mill Valley, Calif. Each family show appears on succeeding weeks.

A unique show, but "Families" is unique in another way. PBS says this is the first time one of its series will appear both on public and commercial TV in the same week, although on different nights.

The commercial airings will be in San Francisco, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Baltimore on stations owned by the Group W chain, which put up most of the loot — $800,000, Wilkes says — to make the series.

Another $200,000, he says, came from the United Church of Christ and the United Methodist Church, with an equal amount in a grant from the Travelers Insurance Companies for the series' public TV telecasts.

Wilkes, 38, who says he comes from a large, working-class family in Cleveland, says "Families" is an outgrowth of a book he wrote about a New Jersey family with whom he lived a year as an observer.

The Group W troops asked him, he said, to put his one-family chronicling techniques to work in a documentary about a number of families "to show what's going on in this country, what people are about." They backed their idea with bucks.

And Wilkes, who used four documentary teams at different times, set off to work, gaining access to the families he chose with the help of church, civic and neighborhood groups.

The filming of each family was done, he said, with the understanding "that if they didn't want us to film something they should tell us." Such telling occasionally occurred, he added, citing one example.

Appeals court frees two commissioners

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Two Lawrence County commissioners were free today after enduring brief jail stays for contempt of court in refusing to sign purchase orders for the county's juvenile and probate judge.

Common Pleas Court Judge Lloyd Burwell on Monday ordered the men to jail until they signed purchase orders for $1,000 in supplies that the judge requested.

Commission President W.H. Kaiser and member Mark Malone were jailed for two hours before they were freed by order of the 4th Court of Appeals in Steubenville. No hearing was set on the commissioners' appeal of the contempt finding.

A third member of the board, Louis Bryant, was held not in contempt after he stated he would sign the purchase orders.

Two of the three commission members must sign purchase orders to validate them.

The two who refused told the judge they did so because he allegedly had not followed proper purchasing methods. They said he ordered the equipment and supplies before taking office Jan. 3.

"I don't have to follow your procedures," the judge replied at the contempt hearing.

"You've got to pay these bills whether I do it backwards, forwards or in between. There is nothing that says I have to be polite about it," the judge added.

Burglar proves he has heart

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — One of the robbers who held a family at bay while ransacking their suburban Detroit home this weekend had heart — he paused to feed a crying infant before leaving.

Three or four men wearing ski masks burst into the home Saturday, bound three family members with telephone cords, placed bedsheets over them and searched the house for some 40 minutes, Southfield police said.

When a 6-month-old boy woke up crying, one of the bandits asked the family where the baby's bottle was kept, warmed it, and fed the infant, said the family, which asked not to be identified.

The charge for Directory Assistance is easy to avoid. Here's how.

If you remember to look in your phone book, chances are you'll rarely if ever have to pay a Directory Assistance charge.

Because there will be some numbers not listed in your directory, there is a monthly allowance of 3 calls to Directory Assistance anywhere within your area code. For each call after that, you'll be charged 20¢. Other ways to avoid the Directory Assistance Charge.

- If a friend or business has moved recently, call their old number. An intercept operator will give you the new number at no extra charge. This service is offered for at least 45 days after a residence customer has moved and 12 months after a business has moved.
- If you regularly call unknown telephone numbers in another city within your area code, call your service representative. We'll see that you get the directory for that city at no charge.
- Remember that you can request 2 numbers on any Directory Assistance call.
- Make a list of frequently called numbers and keep them near the phone. If you do have to call Directory Assistance, write the number down for future use. Your service representative will be glad to send you an Ohio Bell personal directory for listing numbers.

And calls made from coin phones, hospitals, skilled nursing homes, and a home where a resident is physically unable* to use a phone directory are exempt from all Directory Assistance charges. There is also no charge for Directory Assistance calls outside your area code.

The reason for a Directory Assistance charge is simple. We don't want you to pay for a service you don't use. Last year, most of the calls to Directory Assistance were made by only a very small part of the public. But we all shared the costs. Now, that's changed. Now, those persons who use Directory Assistance the most will pay for it.

Since this charging program has been in effect, only about 10% of all customers have been charged. So, remember to look in the book. Chances are you'll never have to pay a Directory Assistance charge.

*To apply for a physical handicap exemption from charges for Directory Assistance calls, just call the Ohio Bell business office.

Control board aids freeze victims

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Board of Regents will pay $25,000 to a Washington law firm to lobby Congress over the next 3½ months on behalf of higher education in Ohio, under a contract narrowly approved by the Controlling Board.

The controllers on Monday also released $1.2 million to 24 Ohio communities that suffered damages to their water systems during the severe weather of the past two months.

In a 4-3 party line vote, majority Democrats on the board agreed to the regents' request to waive competitive bidding and contract the firm of Ragan and Mason.

James V. Stanton of Cleveland, a member of the firm, will be paid $75 an hour under the contract for his services, according to Regents Chancellor James A. Norton.

"Mr. Stanton is a good communicator on the Hill," Norton said of the ex-congressman who lost the Democratic Senate primary election last June to Sen. Howard Metzenbaum. "We have a series of projects on which he is working."

Republican board members said the contract should include more specifics on the extent of services expected from the firm. However, an amendment by Rep. Ben Rose, R-64 Lima, to require at least 300 hours of work from Ragan and Mason under terms of the pact, died for want of a second.

Rep. A. G. Lancione, D-99 Bellaire, who voted reluctantly in favor of the arrangement, said, "this seems to be the type of thing that we ought to be entitled to get free."

Environmental Protection Agency Director Ned Williams won unanimous support for the water grant which he said would be used for "repair and replacing water mains and services lines," mostly in small towns.

"The communities listed have expanded their yearly budgets and funds are not available to maintain the systems without emergency assistance," Williams said. "Continued disruption can result in serious health problems, if it is not corrected."

The board also released $84,369 to the Ohio National Guard for snow removal operations in January and February and $19,368 for the guard's efforts in providing water supplies to Washingtonville, near Youngstown, one of the communities receiving state reimbursement.

Glancing ahead to the summer fair season, the control panel authorized the Ohio Expositions Commission to enter into a financing agreement with the Ohio Building Authority for improvements of up to $5 million at the State Fairgrounds.

The projects will include work on the Fairgrounds Coliseum and an expansion of the outdoor grandstand where major entertainment attractions are presented.

Agriculture Director John Stackhouse said the severe winter weather and the general rundown condition of some facilities necessitated the work before the opening of this year's fair in August.

Communities receiving water grants are: Amsterdam, $10,150; Archbold, $7,000; Blanchester, $20,000; Cardington, $6,000; Clyde, $13,156; Coalton, $3,000; Corning, $2,400; Crooksville, $50,000; Dennison, $41,857; Fostoria, $11,323; Georgetown, $2,000; Glouster, $1,700; Leetonia, $1,000; Nelsonville, $30,429; Oak Hill, $21,984; Peebles,

$20,000; Somerset, $1,000; Trumbull County, $9,277; Uhrichsville, $84,860; Washingtonville, $170,360; Weston, $5,000; West Milton, $205,562; Williamsburg, $20,226, and Yellow Springs, $38,000.

The board deferred a request by Bowling Green State University for $80,000 to buy furniture for the renovated Graduate Center.

Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, who said the tables and chairs favored by the university were too expensive, told a BGSU representative to check listings of the Ohio Penal Institute before returning with a new request.

In other action, the controllers: —Released $160,000 for conversion of the State Office Tower to hot water, steam heating.

—Waived competitive bidding for the Environmental Protection Agency to sign a $45,000 contract with the Maumee Valley Resource Conservation Development and Planning Organization of Defiance for an area water quality management plan.

—Released $70,000 to Mental Health and Mental Retardation for Massillon State Hospital to purchase new hospital beds and a suction and oxygen system.

—Released $438,769 for a power plant expansion project at the Toledo Mental Health Center.

—Approved a $15,000 contract between the Department of Natural Resources and Lantz Hills of Mansfield for feed mixing services at Malabar State Farm.

—Approved a $49,720 purchase by DNR of 72 acres in Columbiana County for Beaver Creek State Park.

—Approved a $57,200 purchase by DNR of 527 acres in Champaign County for Cedar Bog natural area.

—Released $130,106 as additional funding for a nursing home project at the Ohio Soldiers & Sailors Home in Sandusky.

Winter stays in northwest

By The Associated Press

Winter was still a problem in the Pacific Northwest today with a winter storm warning posted over western Oregon and locally heavy snows expected in the Cascade Mountains.

Strong winds and high seas raised the threat of coastal flooding through western Washington and Oregon today as the storm system pushed inland. Gale force winds produced sea swells of 16 to 22 feet and brought tides up two to three feet above normal.

Rain was scattered along the northern Pacific Coast and extended into the northern Rockies with scattered snow at higher elevations.

Rainshowers and occasional snow flurries continued in New England. But showers over south Florida disappeared soon after midnight.

Heavier rainfall in the six hours ending at one a.m. EST included nearly half an inch at Brookings, Ore., and Crescent City, Calif., and a quarter-inch at Eugene and Portland, Ore., and Tacoma, Wash.

Skies were nearly cloudless from the Southwest through the Southeast, as well as from the Plains through the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 21 at Alamosa, Colo., to 68 at Homestead and Key West, Fla.

Urge energy teaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, says the nation's schools should teach energy conservation with the other facts of life.

Addressing the legislative conference here of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA), Glenn said more study by young people of energy and its history could increase fuel conservation.

"The nation's schools could play a powerful role in shaping a conservation ethic among our young people," the Ohio Democrat said.

"The great majority of our young people today have never known want. They were born after the Great Depression and the Second World War," Glenn said.

"They have been taught to consume rather than to conserve. Reversing that pattern offers everyone—including educators—an enormous challenge during the remainder of the 1970s and 80s," he added.

"If fuel is to govern this nation's progress, as well as the entire world's, then energy as an issue deserves a spot in the nation's curriculum. It could be treated as an interdisciplinary subject that combines economics, government, science.

"By stressing energy and its complexities, we can guard against the possibility of raising yet another generation of national leaders and citizens that see Energy as nothing but a filling station and a periodic utility bill."

The fourth constitutional convention to modernize Ohio's constitution was held in 1912.— AP

By The Associated Press
Clear skies overnight let temperatures fall below freezing across Ohio, but those those readings were expected to be the end of the sub-freezing weather for awhile.

Much warmer weather was heading for the state as a ridge of high pressure now over Ohio moved slowly eastward and was replaced by a warm southerly flow.

Most of the state was expected to reach the 50s today, climbing into the 60s to around 70 Wednesday and Thursday. There is a near zero chance of rain today and tonight. Probabilities will increase Wednesday and Thursday as the southerly winds bring in moisture from the Gulf of Mexico.

Thursday through Saturday: Unseasonably warm with a chance of showers daily. Highs in the 60s Thursday and from the upper 40s north to the upper 50s south by Saturday. Overnight lows in the 40s.

Sheraton Gibson demolition starts

CINCINNATI (AP) — The "no vacancy" sign is out at the Sheraton Gibson Hotel.

Soon, the condition will be permanent. The hotel is being demolished within the next six months to make way for a new office and hotel complex in downtown Cincinnati.

Work is scheduled to begin this week to knock down other buildings in the area.

The 68-year-old hotel used to be a focal point for city life, from its location opposite Fountain Square.

In July of 1968, the eyes of the nation were on the Sheraton Gibson Hotel where governors gathered for the National Governors Conference.

Now those rooms—once occupied by the likes of Ronald Reagan and Spiro Agnew—are occupied by piles of plaster.

Little remains in the Gibson, which closed in July 1974 because of what Sheraton officials described at the time as "economic" factors.

The public picked over the items of worth during a public sale which lasted about three months.

The heavier fixtures have been stripped and carted away.

Meanwhile, no room, no suite, no hallway nor ballroom has escaped the deterioration at the Gibson. Marble and brass have been removed from pillars and stairways in the lobby. Ceilings have craved in.

Whatever difference once existed between the most pedestrian of the hotel's 1,000 rooms and the most luxurious suite now is indistinguishable.

"You can't tell one room from another," said an official of Cleveland Wrecking Co.

The Cincinnati Reds hosted officials of the National and American Leagues in July 1970, at a dinner held in the ballroom on the floor above the mezzanine.

Denen heads ALL-SCOL first team list

John Denen-WCH (Captain)

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor
Washington C.H.'s John Denen leads this year's all-South Central Ohio League selections in basketball.
Denen received the most number of votes from the panel of the seven SCOL coaches to be named honorary captain of the 1976-77 ALL-SCOL team.
Denen, just a junior, holds almost every career rebounding record at Washington C.H. and has led the team to its present 17-3 mark this season.
Following Denen in the balloting was Wilmington's Gary Williams. Williams, like Denen, is a 6-foot-3 junior.

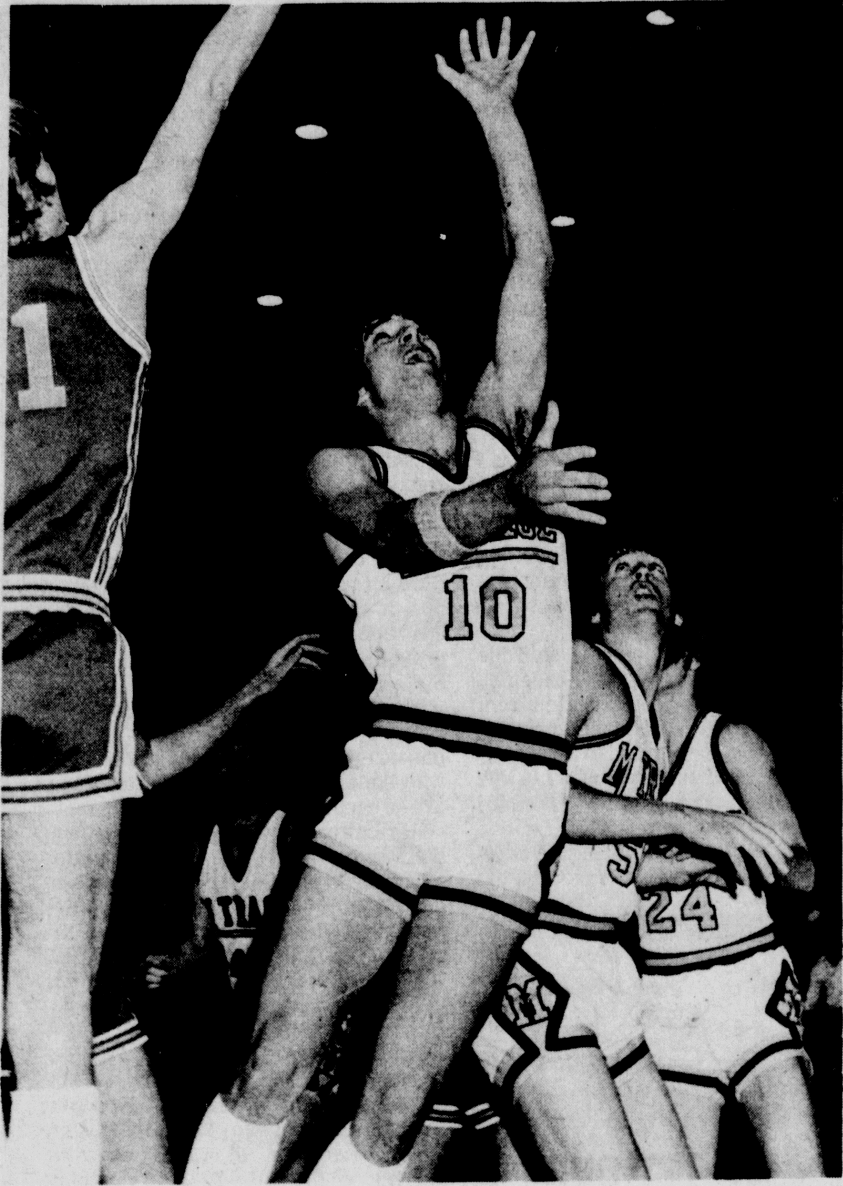

Williams has been one of the main factors in Wilmington's rise to the top of the SCOL this season. The Hurricane holds a 15-3 record but has remained perfect in the SCOL with an 11-0 record.
Third in this year's voting was yet another 6-3 junior, Art Schlichter of Miami Trace. Schlichter has led the league in scoring for most of the season with a 24.2 overall average minus tourney competition and a 23.7 average in the league.
Fourth in balloting was Hillsboro's Tim Fuller. Fuller follows suit with the first three at 6-foot-3 but Fuller is a senior.

Gary Williams-Wil.

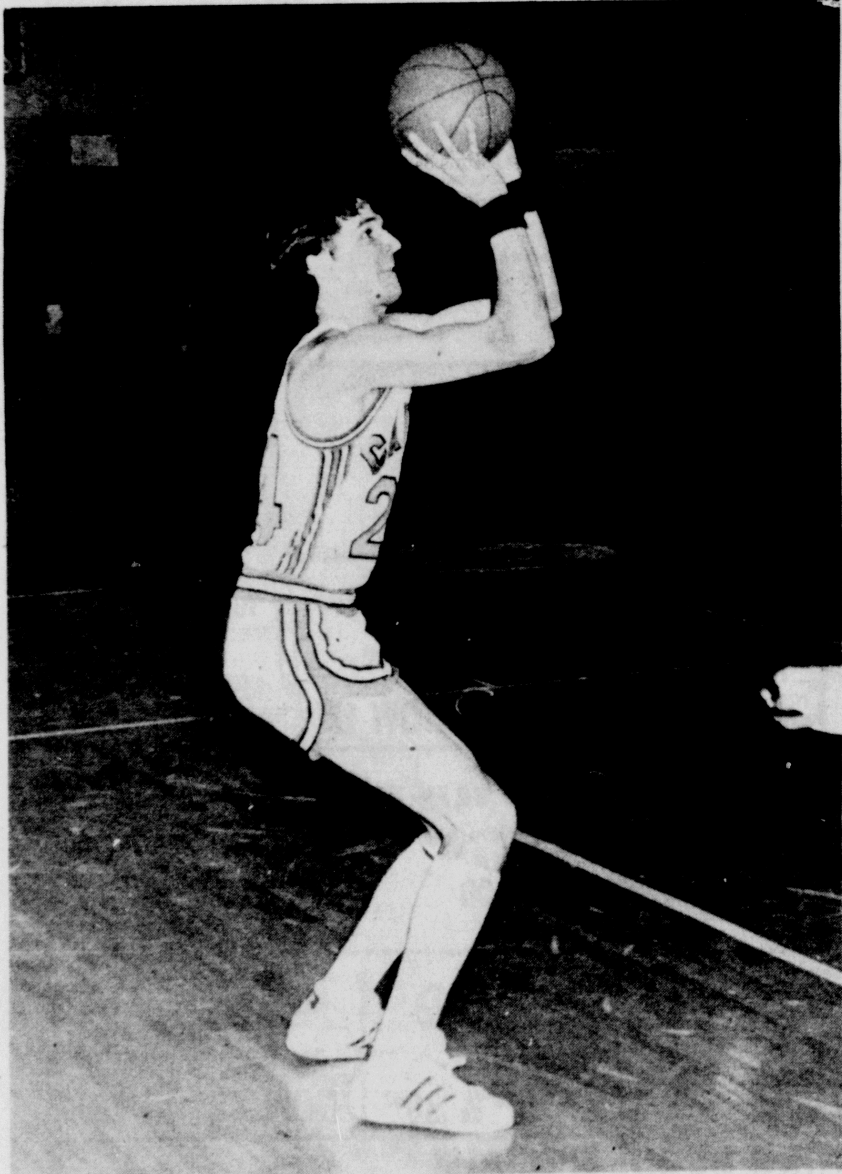

Fuller also had his turn at leading the league in scoring this season and finished with a 21.6 average. He was also a top rebounder for the Indians, averaging 15 rebounds a game.
Fifth is a teammate of Williams at Wilmington. Tony Berlin, a 6-2 senior, came back from a head injury midway through the season to become one of the league's top scorers.
Rounding out the first team is Eric Dunson of Greenfield McClain. Dunson is a 6-1 senior.
Dunson was the mainstay for the Tigers all season as he constantly scored in double figures. He averaged 18.5 points a game throughout the season and 12.8 rebounds each game.

Dee Hart Foster and Dan Gifford were the Fayette County players chosen on the second team.
Circleville led the second team picks with two members chosen. Frank Merrill and Brent Wright were each selected from the Tigers.
Doug Sifrit of Madison Plains and David Nared of Wilmington round out the second team.
Earning honorable mention this season are Sam McClendon and Tom Dean from Washington C.H., Bill Hanners from Miami Trace, Toren

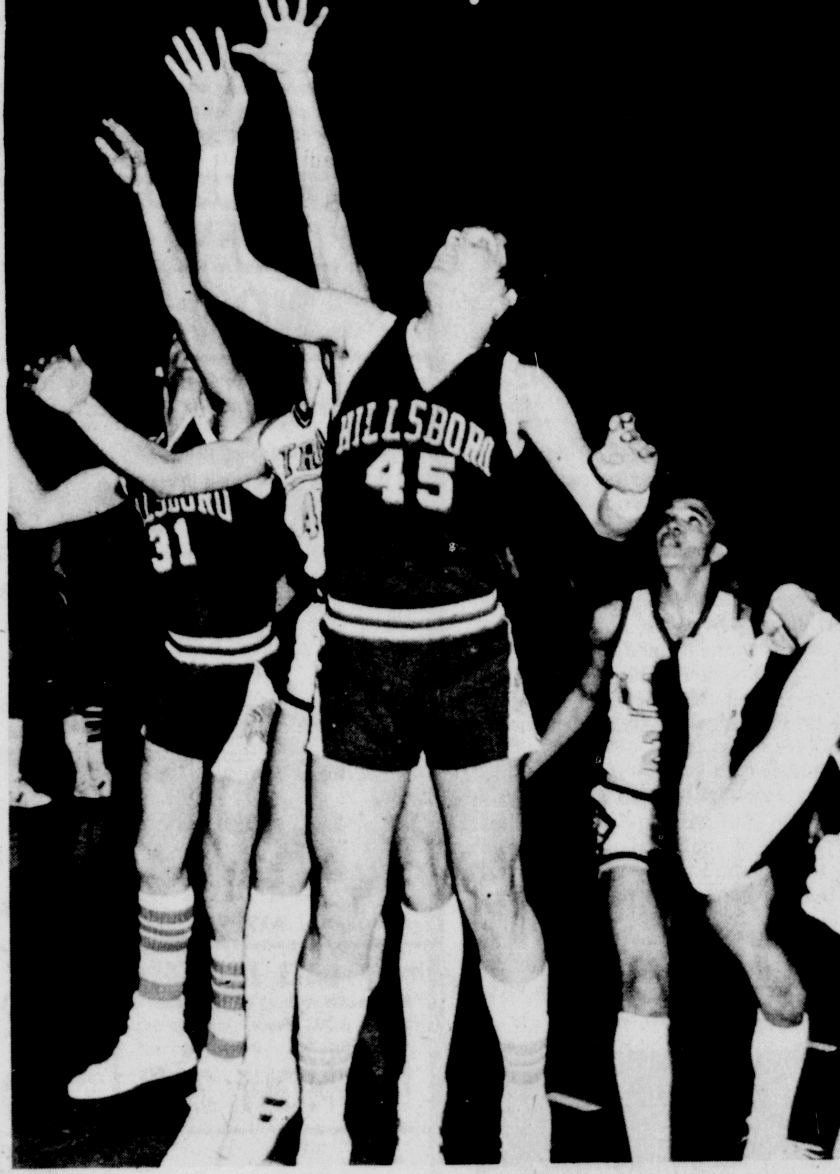

Art Schlichter-MT

NEW YORK (AP) — Marques Johnson sweated and fretted.
"It was hell, I stayed up until three o'clock in the morning before I made a decision," he says.
The day was last June 7 and the decision was to turn down a professional basketball contract.
It proved to be a good decision —

Reds on radio
TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The radio brings Wayne Ryan the world he loves best.
By turning on the transistor radio that hangs by a strap over his shoulder, Ryan is constantly in touch with the goings on of the Cincinnati Reds.
Ryan is one of the team's biggest fans, and his affection for baseball is not dampened by the fact that he has been blind since he was five years old.
"Did you see that hit!" he will shout.
"He really whacked that one!"
Ryan's baseball eyes these days are radio broadcasters Marty Brennaman and Joe Nuxhall, who have allowed him to sit in the broadcast booth during spring training games.
fateful, in fact — because had Johnson turned pro last year, he would not have had the chance to become college basketball's most applauded player of 1976-77.
Johnson gained the Adolph Rupp Trophy Monday as The Associated Press Player of the Year, outscoring the rest of the field by a wide margin.

Clam Shells Used for Roads Over Marshes

By GUY COATES Associated Press Writer BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) - With the help of two Turkish-born engineers, Louisiana has developed a method of building "floating" highways over marsh as soft as ice cream. The main ingredient is a lot of clam shells. And Louisiana has a lot of clam shells.

"In 1971 we were just getting involved with relocation of U.S. 90 and needed to come up with a cheap method to cross a marsh," said Ali Kemahli, soil design engineer for the State Highway Department.

His division linked up with a Louisiana State University engineering team to research the idea of using clam shells for a highway embankment.

The university team was headed by Ara Arman, a civil engineering instructor who, like Kemahli, moved to the United States from Istanbul years ago.

They attended the same university in Istanbul, though at different times. And both attended the University of Texas, again at different times.

NOTICE OF HEARING
ON ANNEXATION PETITION
The Board of County Commissioners of Fayette County, Ohio, has set a hearing before that Board in its offices in Washington C. H., Ohio, on the 4th day of April, 1977, at 1:30 p.m., on a certain Petition for Annexation filed by Ben W. Hale, Jr., 37 West Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio, 43215, Agent for the Petitioners, and praying for annexation to the City of Washington Court House, Ohio, of 23.6356 acres, more or less, in Union Township, Fayette County, Ohio, the substance of said petition being as follows:
TO THE BOARD OF COUNTY COMMISSIONERS OF FAYETTE COUNTY, OHIO:
The undersigned, petitioners in the premises, and being a MAJORITY OF OWNERS OF REAL ESTATE in the territory hereinafter described, consisting of 23.6356 acres, more or less, in the Township of Union, Fayette County, Ohio, which area is contiguous and adjacent to the City of Washington Court House, do hereby pray that said territory be annexed to the City of Washington Court House, according to the statutes of the State of Ohio.
A full and accurate description and a plat of said territory so prayed to be annexed are attached hereto and made a part hereof.
In support of said Petition, your petitioners state that there are within the territory so prayed to be annexed 2 OWNERS OF REAL ESTATE.
Ben W. Hale, Jr., 37 West Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio 43215, is hereby appointed Agent for the undersigned Petitioners, as required by Section 709.02 of the Revised Code of Ohio. Said Agent is hereby authorized to make any amendment and/or deletion which in his absolute and complete discretion is necessary or proper under the circumstances then existing, and in particular to make such amendment in order to correct any discrepancy or mistake noted by the Fayette County Engineer in his examination of the Petition and Plat. Said amendment shall be made by the presentation of an amended plat and description to the Board of County Commissioners on, before, or after the date set for hearing on this Petition.
Said Petition was signed by the following owners of real estate: Frank B. Sollars and Janet L. Sollars. The description attached to said Petition read as follows:

Gastroscope and Stomach Ulcers

I've had two attacks of stomach ulcers. Now my doctor wants to put a tube down my stomach to examine it. He says if I have another attack he will do it. I'm so frightened. Is this always necessary? — Mrs. K.R., Ga.

Dear Mrs. R.: I'm certain that your doctor explained this procedure to you. Perhaps, in your terror, you did not hear the reassurance that the procedure is a safe and painless one.

The gastroscope is a brilliantly conceived device. When the gastroscope is painlessly passed into the stomach almost every part of the lining of the stomach can be seen.

Pictures can be taken of the lining of the stomach which, when later studied, can make an excellent contribution to the diagnosis of any existing disease.

When necessary, small pieces of tissue can be removed (biopsy) for microscopic examination. The contents of the stomach can be withdrawn. The fluid is then studied for the presence of bile, blood, digestive juices and hydrochloric acid.

With this technique, much valuable information is added to that already accumulated by X-ray studies of the stomach and the upper intestines.

Many people owe their lives to the early recognition of existing conditions of the stomach that might otherwise have been missed, without the use of the gastroscope.

My husband finally gave up smoking cigarettes and has switched to a pipe. I hope you can tell me that pipe tobacco is as bad as cigarette tobacco. I'm about ready to lose my mind with the accidental burns and the smoke. — Mrs. E.W., Mich.

Dear Mrs. W.: The toxic effects of pipe tobacco are considered somewhat less than those of cigarettes. But even if we disregard toxicity, there still is the adverse effect on the lungs caused by the smoke itself.

All smoke is a pollutant and, as such, affects the free and easy exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs.

Pipe smokers and cigar smokers fill a room with smoke and odors that are becoming more and more intolerable to non-smokers. Public Health officials warn that all smoke from all tobacco can, over a long period of time, be hazardous not only to the smoker, but to those who are exposed to it.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Bridge is much more a game of inference and logic than of mathematics. Declarer can often deduce the precise nature of the unseen hands by basing his reasoning on what the defenders either did or did not do during the bidding or play.

Here is a fine example of good card reading. West leads the king of clubs and continues with the ace. Declarer ruffs in dummy and loses a trump finesse to West's king. Back comes a trump won by South with the jack.

Declarer thereupon plays the ace and another spade, finessing the ten! When the ten wins, South discards all his diamonds on dummy's spades and so makes five hearts doubled. Without the finesse he goes down one.

How in the world can South possibly be smart enough to finesse the spade? Is he just lucky, or is there a sound basis for the unusual finesse? The answer is that South knows the finesse will win. He reaches this conclusion by correctly interpreting the opponents' bidding and play.

Let's see what South knows about West's hand when he reaches the point of decision at trick six. Declarer's only sure knowledge of West's distribution is that West had precisely two hearts.

But South can also rationally conclude that West would have led a diamond at either trick two or trick four — if he had one — and his failure to do so proves that he is void of diamonds. Furthermore, since East raised clubs during the bidding, showing at least three-card support, it follows that West — who has two hearts and no diamonds — has neither more nor less than seven clubs and hence must have precisely four spades. No other distribution is possible.

B'burg farmer wins excellence award

Craig honored at pork banquet

Harry Craig, Jones Road, near Bloomingburg, was recognized as Ohio Pork Industry "excellence award winner" at the Fayette County Pork Producers Association banquet Monday night in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The pork industry excellence award is presented annually to an Ohio pork producer in recognition for outstanding leadership and contribution to the pork industry. Craig was recognized for his leadership in the organization of the Ohio Pork Producer Council and for his innovative ideas in pork production practices. Craig is a past director of the Ohio Pork Council and past president of the Fayette County Pork Producers Association.

Ron Powers, farm director, of WRFD Radio in Columbus, presented a slide program describing the Craig farming operation and his contributions toward improvement of the swine industry. Powers presented the awards which were to have been presented at the Ohio Pork Congress in February. Craig was snowbound on Jones Road at the time and could not be present. Thus the recognition was provided Monday night.

Powers represented WRFD Radio, the Ohio Pork Council, and the American Cyanimid Corp., co-sponsors of the award.

During the banquet, Richard Wood, chairman of the pork carcass evaluation committee, presented premium awards to the top 15 barrows and gilts in the evaluation. Hogs entered in the carcass evaluation held Feb. 23 were placed according to the percentage of lean cuts.

The top five barrows, with respective lean cuts in parenthesis, were exhibited by Ednabelle Hoppes (67.15 per cent); Albert Mongold (66.12 per cent); Karen Hoppes (65.22 per cent); Rob Donohoe (65.03 per cent); and John Huysman (64.86 per cent).

The top five gilts were exhibited by Jerry Hoppes (76.09 per cent); Lawrence Hoppes (65.48 per cent); John Hiser (65.30 per cent); Jerry Hoppes (64.96 per cent); and Mark Hiser (64.90 per cent).

The pork producers elected the following new directors for two-year terms:

Dave Owens served as master of ceremonies for the banquet. Jerry Hoppes was the banquet chairman.

Vandals damage semi rigs

A vandal with an ice pick expressed his dislike for semi tractor-trailer rigs in Fayette County Monday night.

The Washington C.H. Police Department reported that a rig parked on the Ev's Fine Food parking lot on Columbus Avenue had its radiator and front tires punctured by a sharp object, possibly an ice pick, at 10:30 p.m. Monday.

The rig is owned by the Food Marketing Corp. and the driver, Gene Hamm of Hudson, Ind., made the report.

At approximately the same time, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department received a similar report from a truck driver at Garner's Truck Stop on U.S. 35-NW.

Rodney Miller, Fairborn, told sheriff's deputies that the front wheels of his rig and the radiator were punctured by an ice pick.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department also investigated a failure to pay incident at Garner's Truck Stop Monday. A driver of a semi tractor-trailer rig had a tire and tube installed on his truck, and then reportedly left without paying.

Deputies are also investigating the theft of three cases of returnable soft drink bottles from the Lee's Motel, 3462 U.S. 62-NE.

Beef referendum subject for T-Bone Club meeting

The Beef Research and Information Act which provides for a National Beef Marketing referendum will be the topic of the Fayette County Cattlefeeders Association's T-Bone Club meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room restaurant.

Pete Everhart, a Pickaway County cattlefeeder, will present the program to explain the background of the referendum and the procedures that will be used. The referendum vote is tentatively scheduled for this spring.

The Beef Research and Information Act is an industry self-help program that enables producers to vote in a referendum to provide a system to finance research, consumer education, producers information, promotion, and market development programs.

To date, over 80 state and national beef and dairy organizations have endorsed the plan. The proposed rate of collection would be three tenths of one per cent of sales value. The collections would be made at each point of sale and would be only on the value added.

Everhart will explain complete details of the program. All Fayette County cattlefeeders and interested agri-businessmen are encouraged to attend the T-Bone meeting.

Commissioners, city eye problem

CETA funds pondered for local dog control

By PHIL LEWIS
Record-Herald City Editor

Help may be on its way for Fayette County residents, who often find unpleasant surprises while walking across their lawns or discover their garbage cans overturned.

Washington C.H. City Manager George H. Shapter is planning to meet with the Fayette County Board of Commissioners to discuss the dog control problem in the county.

The commissioners are hoping to secure funds under the newly developed Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program, which is administered by the city. There are about $200,000 in federal funds available for employing county residents, who are out of work.

"We're definitely going to have to put several people on this dog problem," Ray D. Warner, chairman of the county board of commissioners, said Monday.

Presently, the county has one man, the dog warden, patrolling the county for unleashed and unlicensed dogs. This means the dog warden, Reginald (Chink) Davis, must cover the entire county by himself.

"We're spreading one man pretty thin," Warner said.

Davis has had assistants, who carry the titles of deputy dog wardens, in the past. Presently, there is no assistant due to a lack of funds.

All county money for dog control must come from the dog and kennel fund, Warner pointed out. This money comes from the sale of county dog licenses, and there is just not enough money available to hire additional help which admittedly is needed.

"We're talking two people," Warner said in reference to the possible CETA assistance.

Warner contacted Shapter Monday afternoon

following the weekly commissioners meeting and asked the city manager to look into the possible use of CETA funds. A meeting was scheduled for next Monday at 2 p.m. in the Courthouse between three commissioners and Shapter.

Shapter has been interested in curbing the number of stray dogs in Washington C.H. for sometime. Washington C.H. City Council has received numerous complaints in the past about dogs running loose and scattering garbage.

When the new CETA program got off the ground last month, Shapter told Council that "two, possibly three people" could be hired with the federal funds for dog control purposes. He added that the main problem in introducing a program to the city was the lack of equipment such as a vehicle.

Davis, who has jurisdiction over Washington C.H. as well as the county when it comes to dog control matters, has a vehicle supplied by the county commissioners. Warner told Shapter Monday by telephone that a county vehicle could possibly be secured for any additional help hired through CETA.

Shapter and Washington C.H. residents are not the only ones concerned over the stray dog problem. Jeffersonville has taken steps of its own to enforce a village ordinance on animal control.

Numerous complaints had been received by the village council from Jeffersonville residents concerning the animal problem for the past two months.

Last week, the village council members agreed to strictly enforce the ordinance. The law gives the village authority to impound and destroy without notice to the owner any dog that is not muzzled or on a leash in a public place or street.

In response to the village council's concern, the commissioners Monday asked the dog warden to spend more time in Jeffersonville.

Permanent tax cut eyed instead

GOP wants to block rebates

WASHINGTON (AP) — Out-numbered House Republicans are hoping to pick up enough Democratic votes to junk President Carter's proposed $50-per-person rebate and give Americans a permanent tax cut instead.

Several Democrats share the GOP's distaste for the rebate, but there is no indication that enough will switch votes to kill the rebate and hand Carter a major defeat. A similar Republican effort was defeated last month, 258 to 148.

The vote on the Republican proposal is expected to be the last preliminary question before the House was to decide late today on a tax cut aimed at stimulating the economy. House approval of the tax-cut package would send the measure to the Senate, where the Finance Committee scheduled hearings on the plan today.

The rebates for an estimated 200

million Americans are the key element of Carter's tax-cut plan.

Carter also wants to raise the standard deduction, which would mean a permanent tax cut averaging $105 for 45 million couples or individuals. Some 88 per cent of the tax cut would go to families or persons with incomes under $15,000, but the 31 per cent of taxpayers who itemize deductions would get no benefits.

As a substitute for the Carter rebate, the House Republican Conference wants to permanently cut tax rates across the board, targeting the reductions on middle-and upper-income families regardless of whether they itemize or use the standard deduction.

Under the GOP plan, 67 per cent of the money would go to those with incomes under $20,000; 11 per cent would go to persons earning more than $30,000 a year.

This would result in a $121 tax cut for a single person earning $10,000 a year; a $185 cut for a family of four earning $15,000, and a $250 cut for a four-member family earning $25,000.

Why a permanent tax cut instead of the rebate?

"Give somebody $50 and he'll spend it on something costing $50 or maybe $100," reasons a House Republican aide. "But give him a permanent tax cut — something he can count on for a long time — and he'll buy a car or some other big purchase that will really help the economy."

Republicans note that efforts to prevent some persons from getting two $50 checks will cause such a delay that some rebates won't even be mailed until late July or August.

That delay obviously would work against the aim of the rebates: to give the economy a quick infusion of cash.

DEMOLITION CONTINUES — A wrecker's ball smashes into a wall of the former Washington Hotel on N. Main Street Monday as demolition crews continued to raze the 66-year-old Washington C.H. landmark. The three-story structure, constructed in 1911, is being razed by the Cartwright Refuse Removal Co. for owner Frank J. Weade. Demolition work was temporarily suspended during the winter months. The building has been vacant since last August.

District receives increased gas allocation

Rose Avenue, Cherry Hill students may return to buildings March 21

There was some indication at Monday night's Washington C. H. Board of Education meeting that the displaced students from Cherry Hill and Rose Avenue elementary schools will be returning to their respective buildings soon.

Monday, March 21, was the date mentioned for the reopening of the two school buildings which were closed last month because of the natural gas crisis. The students have been attending classes in the Washington C. H. Middle School.

Board President Robert N. Nestor said the Dayton Power and Light Co. has given the district 60 per cent of its 1972 monthly natural gas allocation.

Three buildings, the two closed elementary schools and Washington Senior High School, are heated by natural gas. Fuel allocation for the buildings was sharply cut last month forcing the closing of the two elementary school buildings.

Even though the increased allocation has been granted, the board has been reluctant to reopen the schools until it is sure no further closings will be necessary.

The March 21 reopening will come one day after the winter heating period instituted by Dayton Power and Light Co. ends. A new allocation schedule will then be instituted, and it appears to be a safe time to reopen the two buildings for the remainder of the year.

Superintendent Edwin M. Nestor told the board that books and materials used by the elementary students during their temporary stay at the Middle School will be moved to the closed buildings Saturday, March 19.

While the city school district has appeared to overcome this winter's natural gas crisis, steps are being taken to assure that a similar shortage in future winters will not cause major problems.

At last month's meeting the board discussed converting the heating system at the senior high school to a dual system similar to the Middle School. The Middle School's heating system can burn both natural gas and fuel oil.

The board gave Nestor the authority to advertise for bids on the installation of the new system at Monday night's meeting.

Black gunman gives whites seven days to leave planet

CLEVELAND (AP) — Authorities contacted the White House today in an effort to reach President Carter for a telephone conference demanded by a man holding a policeman hostage a second day, Warrensville Heights Police Chief Craig Merchant said.

Merchant said Cory Moore, 25, who was armed with his own pistol as well as that of the officer he took captive Monday afternoon, was tired but calm, even joking with his hostage, Capt. Leo Keglovic.

"We just hope he remains as calm as he has been so far," the chief said.

Moore, a black, has said he wants to free his people from white oppression. Merchant said the ex-Marine and former auto worker expressed dissatisfaction today with what Moore saw as the news media's apparent disregard of his vow to curse the white world if all whites weren't off Earth within seven days.

Moore was watching news reports on a television set police provided early today in exchange for Moore's other hostage, Shelley Kiggins, 17.

Moore said he didn't swap the girl for the TV but rather simply decided to let her go, Merchant said.

Miss Kiggins was taken hostage at gunpoint when Moore pulled a hidden weapon from under a overcoat draped on one arm as he waited in a traffic bureau line in the suburb's city hall. Moore also fired twice at that time, and Keglovic was captured when he responded to the gunfire, police said. Police headquarters are in the same building, and officers quickly surrounded the office in which Moore held Keglovic and Miss Kiggins.

Police said he triggered another shot later when they sent food to the hostages with Moore's permission, though Moore disdained the food as possibly having been poisoned or drugged. No one was hurt.

At first Moore would only talk to black newsmen, who quoted the gunman as saying he wanted white people to leave the planet within seven days and take with them "their guns, bombs, bullets and ignorance."

Later Moore agreed to speak with police Chief Craig Merchant, who said Moore told him he would "place a curse upon the planet if white people didn't leave within seven days." Merchant said Moore also said he wanted to talk with President Carter.

Almost 11 hours after the siege began, Moore released Miss Kiggins, a high school senior who works part-time in the traffic fine bureau. She said Moore had walked up to her window and brandished a handgun he hid under

School boards guilty of bias

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A federal court judge has found the Columbus city and state boards of education guilty of fostering racial segregation in the 96,000-student Columbus school district.

U.S. District Court Judge Robert M. Duncan said, based on the trial evidence, he agreed with the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, the plaintiffs, that "defendants have, by their actions and omissions, intentionally caused racial segregation in the Columbus schools."

Duncan said a "significant part of the Columbus Public Schools was intentionally segregated on the basis of race at the time of the now-famous Brown (vs. Topeka, Kan. Board of Education) decision in 1954."

"The Columbus Board of Education has never taken action which effectively corrected the continuing impact of this dual system and the board, during the past 1954 period has maintained and even enhanced racial imbalance, in the schools..."

The 86-page decision in the case of Gary Penick, a black Columbus student, against the schools and others, did not propose a remedy to the situation.

But Duncan gave officials of Ohio's second largest school district 90 days to propose their own remedy to segregation in time for the 1977-1978 school year.

For large commercial, industrial users

DP&L eases gas curtailments

DAYTON, Ohio — The Dayton Power and Light Co. has eased the natural gas curtailment to over 900 large commercial, industrial and governmental customers.

In a letter to these customers, the Dayton Power and Light Co. explained that its supply situation has further improved because of continued conservation by all customers in its 24-county service area and warmer than normal weather conditions in the past few weeks.

Because of the improved situation, non-domestic customers whose use of natural gas exceeded 5,000 ccf in any one month in 1972 may use up to 60 per cent of their winter base period allocation. The increased usage permission became effective Monday.

Large commercial and industrial users who have exceeded, or will exceed 60 per cent of their winter period allocation, and who do not purchase alternate fuel, are required to remain at plant protection levels until the date of their March meter reading, the company said.

Following the March meter reading, these customers have been advised to stay at 60 per cent of their 1972 monthly entitlement until further notice.

Duel fuel and alternate boiler fuel customers continue to be curtailed 100 per cent at this time, the company said.

an overcoat draped over his arm. Police said that Moore fired three shots but no one was hurt.

After her release, Miss Kiggins said Moore didn't threaten to hurt anyone, but did tie their arms and legs at times.

"He's just a normal man out for one thing," Miss Kiggins said. "He wants to get his message out to the people."

She said Moore "just kept talking about how he wanted to end discrimination and free his people."

Moore, a student at Cuyahoga Community College, released the young woman in exchange for a television set and a tape of the late night news. Police also added that he talked about having a news conference.

Moore refused to talk to any of his relatives, including his estranged wife, Veronica, his father and an uncle, who were brought to city hall. A cousin, Claude Martin, said Moore has a 4-year-old son, and a 2-year-old daughter.

Randall Fitch, a friend of Moore's who came to city hall but did not get to talk to him, said "he's got his head together but he's always felt that white people were against him."

Fitch said he and Moore had played chess last weekend and that Moore told him then he was going to hold some sort of demonstration on Monday. But he did not specify further.

Meanwhile, the wife of the remaining hostage said her husband could take care of himself and that being a policeman is "his whole life and he never wanted the family to worry about anything."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is meeting for a third, originally unscheduled session with Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin of Israel, who is asking Carter to guarantee Israel's strength to stand alone against its adversaries.

Rabin is meeting with Carter today at the White House. He was invited to lunch with members of Congress and scheduled a news conference later in the day at Blair House, the government guest residence across from the White House.

The prime minister said he was gratified by Carter's endorsement Monday of "defensible borders" for Israel. But Rabin asked the President during a "working dinner" Monday night to "make sure that Israel's strength will allow it to defend itself by itself."

Rabin attended the dinner after meeting with Defense Secretary Harold Brown. The prime minister wants 250 F16 air combat fighters and assurance the Carter administration will honor former President Gerald R.

Ford's promise of new see-in-the-dark devices for airplanes.

The Air Force has been reluctant to grant Israel's request to supply some of the F16s and has been equally reluctant to run the risk of letting the nightvision technology fall into adversary hands on a captured Israeli jet.

Rabin was smarting because of Carter's reversal last month of Ford's commitment to sell Israel concussion bombs and over Carter's veto of Israel's request to sell 24 of its Kfir jet fighters, powered by U.S. engines, to Ecuador.

Pentagon officials said they didn't expect Rabin to make any new weapons requests, but Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz has said his country is looking for a replacement for the concussion bombs.

Rabin also is believed to have discussed implications of the decision to stop the sale of Kfir fighters. Nationalist China is said to be considering the plane to replace its U.S.-made F104s. If it chooses the Israeli plane, Carter will be faced with another Kfir decision.

Today's meeting between Rabin and Carter was not on the State Department's original schedule for the prime minister's visit. But White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Monday afternoon that the third meeting "has been a possibility all along."

He and Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance also tried to minimize the significance of Carter's assurances that his concept of an over-all Middle East settlement includes "defensible borders" for Israel.

The President gave the assurances in a welcoming speech for Rabin and added that permanent peace entails "a sense of security about this young country in the future."

But Vance said afterward: "There's no change of position by use of the words 'defensible borders.' There was no geographical connotation, and it is not inconsistent with our position" on the U.N. Security Council resolution that calls for a negotiated settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict. That resolution assures all Middle East states "secure and recognized boundaries."

Ohio Senate takes up budget

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee began informal consideration of the Rhodes Administration's $14.5 billion budget bill Monday night although it will not leave the House for several weeks.

Senate chairman Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, and the panel heard an "overview" of the big spending document from Budget and Management Director William W. Wilkins. As he had told the House, Wilkins said it is a no-frills document which is balanced and does not require new taxes.

Meshel said the advance session, and others that will follow, are designed to speed hearings on the measure which is needed to finance state operations for the next biennium starting July 1.

Earlier, House Finance chairman Myrl H. Shoemaker, D-89 Bourneville, said he didn't expect the budget to reach the floor of that chamber until midor late-April. Subsections of the House panel have been going over departmental requests for nearly a month.

The Senate returned from weekend recess for a Monday night floor session but had no bills up for action. House members were returning today but were slated to vote only on a couple of routine measures.

Meshel's committee heard testimony on two other House bills Monday night.

It recommended passage unanimously of a measure that allows the Controlling Board to recoup emergency fundse released to state agencies toresolve unforeseen contingencies.

Under existing law, funds released by the board are later placed by the

A LIMITED number of tickets for the Miami Trace-Cambridge district basketball tournament game Friday will go on sale from 3 to 5 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday at the high school.

Athletic director Richard Hill said the Panthers will meet Cambridge at 8:45 p.m. Friday in the district tournament at Marietta College.

The tickets are priced at $2 per person.

"borrowing" agency into the state's General Revenue Fund.

Sponsors said the legislation will help the seven-member Controlling Board maintain the state's all purposes emergency funds. It uses the funds to pay for such things as Ohio National Guard and other costs during disasters—this year's winter storms, for example.

Robert P. Ziegler, director of the Ohio Student Loan Commission, urged Meshel's committee to approve a second House measure that expands the loan program to include 100 per cent guarantees for loans. The same measure would enable nonresident students at Ohio colleges to receive loans from financial institutions in the state

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Paul C. Warnke is confirmed as chief U.S. disarmament negotiator, the Carter administration could have trouble winning ratification of any agreement he reaches with the Soviets, Senate opponents say.

The debate over Warnke continues today, with votes set for Wednesday on Warnke's twin appointments to be chief strategic arms limitation talks (SALT) negotiator and director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

The issue of whether Warnke's nomination might jeopardize any new SALT agreement cropped up during the second day of debate Monday.

Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., told the Senate that Warnke's

reputation as a "dove" in opposing major U.S. nuclear weapons programs raises a "credibility gap."

"Any proposed treaty will be in jeopardy before it even comes to the Senate floor," Schweiker asserted. "In the end, Mr. Warnke himself would become the issue in any Senate ratification proceedings rather than the merits of any treaty he might negotiate."

Disagreement was voiced by Sens. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

They said any treaty to replace the five-year interim SALT agreement expiring Oct. 3 will be examined on its own merits regardless of who does the negotiating.

A NUMBER of miscellaneous items were covered during the brief board meeting. The board:

—Approved a request from Mrs. Sylvia Althouse to allow her son, Ronnie, to attend Wayne Elementary School in Good Hope;

—Employed Miss Elizabeth Sauer and Mary Fish as substitute teachers;

—Approved the leave request from Mrs. Ruth Domenico and Mrs. Frances Tye to attend a professional meeting in Washington, D. C. March 9-12. Expenses will be paid by Title I funds;

—Employed Gary Shaffer as a driver education instructor for a course beginning April 4;

—Employed Greg Oliver and Carol Clements to tutor students with temporary physical handicaps;

—Approved a request from Christopher Waldrep, art teacher at the high school, to attend the National Art Association convention in Philadelphia, Pa., April 2-5;

—Approved a request from Southern State College to conduct a follow up course in English composition during the spring quarter at the high school;

—Employed Raymond Frazier as a maintenance assistant under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act; and —Approved the use of two buses to transport students to the district tournament basketball game Friday night in Athens. If the Washington C. H. team wins Friday, buses will be sent to Athens on Saturday as well.

equipment — and the thin hope for a miracle — rescuers today prepared to electronically search the spot in a mine where they believe five miners have been trapped since last Tuesday.

Federal officials conceded it would take a miracle to find the miners alive but said rescue efforts, nonetheless, would continue day and night.

"I'm not giving up any hope till I get my hands on the last one of them," said Sam Klingner, foreman at the Kochoer Coal Co. mine. "Anything is possible, anything."

A drill broke through Big Lick Mountain and into the mine shortly before midnight Monday, said Robert Rissinger, coal company president.

He said the drilling operation had been on target and rescuers had bored to where the missing miners are thought to be. "We hit the spot, and it is open down there," he said.

Rissinger said it would take several hours to pull the drill bit back to top of the mountain, clearing the 432-foot passageway for the electronic equipment.

The miners were trapped with five others in the mine at midday last Tuesday when a torrent of water broke through the Porter Tunnel. Four bodies have been removed from the mud and debris.

Only one of the 10, Ronald Adley, 37, has been found alive. Adley, rescued Sunday after nearly five days in the mine, was reported in good condition at Pottsville Hospital. He survived by scrambling up a chute where an air pocket had formed, holding back the water.

"I don't believe there's any way anyone could be alive down there," said an official who asked not to be identified. "There are no other air pockets down there."

Stocks make new gains

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market worked its way ahead today, continuing the rally of the past several sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up about 2 points in the early going, and gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts noted no special news behind the market's strength. Rather, they said, traders seemed to have concluded from the market's steady showing lately that early-1977 selling pressure had abated.

Today's early prices included Ford Motor, down 1/4 at 59; Champion Spark Plug, ahead 1/4 at 12 1/4, and S.S. Kresge, up 1/4 at 35 1/2.

Kresge reported that its earnings for the quarter ended Jan. 26 rose to 88 cents a share from 81 cents in the comparable year-ago period.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 1.66 advance to 955.12 for its third straight gain.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 5-4 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totalled 17.41 million shares, against 18.95 million on Friday.

The NYSE's composite index picked up .04 to 55.02.

Job openings in space

Space has thus far been the exclusive domain of astronauts. When the space shuttles begin operating, this will change. In addition to shuttle pilots especially trained for this work, the typical mission will include both "mission specialists" to oversee experiments in progress, and scientists whose particular skills are needed for some experiments. The National Aeronautics and Space Administration plans to recruit 15 mission specialists and at least 15 pilots. The deadline for applications is June 30, and already some 1,300 have been received.

Not just anyone will be able to go; the qualifications are rigorous. Yet this recruiting program can be seen as the dawn of an era when many different kinds of people will be venturing and doing specialized work in the limitless provinces of space.

THESE DAYS...By John Chamberlain

The gas crisis and common sense

In the South, where I spent the last week in February, they think the people of the Northeast are crazy. And this, despite the natural sympathy that is felt in the Gulf states for Yankees who have suffered through the worst winter in memory.

The liberal journalists (such as Jack Anderson and Pete Hamill) are convinced that the big oil and gas majors have been sitting on their sources of natural gas in hopes of capitalizing on a future price rise. The allegations have convinced some two-thirds of the population in the New York metropolitan area that the natural gas shortage has been artificially contrived. Yet the same oil companies who are accused of holding out on the public when it comes to allocating gas have handed the Federal government some $1.13 billion for oil and gas drilling rights in the Atlantic.

This obvious commitment to an expanded production that would alleviate shortages in the Northeast has been rudely checked by Judge Weinstein's ruling that the claims of the ecologists have not been considered in the leasing. Judge Weinstein, who evidently fancies himself as a geologist, thinks the government has vastly overstated peak oil and gas expectations for the so-called Baltimore Canyon area east of Maryland, and accuses the government of irresponsibility in refusing to grapple with such "specifics" as choosing — in advance of any oil or gas discoveries — between pipeline and tanker transportation of oil from the well head to East Coast ports. (In the nature of things no rational economic choice between pipeline and tanker can come before the amount of available fuel is ascertained. Judge Weinstein has gotten his economics backwards.)

Just why an industry that is willing to pay billions to develop new fields should be sabotaging production in the fields it already possesses is a question that the poll takers fail to ask. Maybe the oil and gas companies would like to get higher prices for Gulf of Mexico gas sold in the interstate market, but the fact is that gas from existing fields, such as the Continental Oil Company's Grand Isle Block 43, is already committed to interstate pipeline customers at present rates.

Shell Oil was so incensed at the charges of withholding made by liberal journalists that it took reporters on a helicopter tour of four of its Gulf of Mexico facilities. The tour showed plenty of activity in new platform building in an area where Shell was investing $104 million since acquiring lease rights in 1974.

According to the Shell management, enough gas to heat 250,000 homes would have been flowing from 25 new wells by this year if only the Federal Power Commission had come through with certification in time. In extension of both the Shell company and the Federal government, it can be said that neither party to the leasing deal foresaw the winter conditions of 1977.

Just how things might be improved by "nationalizing" the gas industry and calling in the Army to oversee production, which is the solution favored by New York City journalist Pete Hamill, is a mystery that passes ordinary understanding. The oil companies, who are not in business for their health, obviously want to make whatever money is available for the natural gas they are committed to deliver anyway. They have no interest in holding back on existing contracts.

Answering Hamill, David H. Foster, the executive vice president of the Washington-based Natural Gas Supply Committee, says that "in virtually every instance where wells have been capped there is a ready and valid explanation. In some cases Federal Power Commission red tape is the cause. In other cases transportation facilities have not been completed by the pipeline purchaser." Bringing in the Army to oversee operations (an Army, incidentally, that Pete Hamill has accused in the past of criminal doings and utter incompetence in South Vietnam) is hardly a technological solution.

Nor do judges help when they refuse to look at the Gulf Coast records for safety in offshore drilling and transportation procedures. The sooner the Northeast stops crying in its beer over the lack of fuel and goes to work drilling for its own sources, the better for everybody in the nation.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE
What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 9
ARIES (March 21 to April 20)
Past experience may give you the clue to solution of a current problem. Good Mars influence should help you to make fine advances.
TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)
Venus influences excellent. You should be in a zesty mood and well able to produce your best. Organize assistance to put a new idea over the top.
GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)
You are one of those gifted persons who can produce original and unusual ideas when they are most needed. This is your day to shine.
CANCER (June 22 to July 23)
You'll do best now if you cooperate with the plans of others instead of insisting on your own. Some friction possible otherwise.
LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23)

A little snap and bounce won't be amiss now. Put everything in proper proportion; there could be some errors in judgment, so be alert.
VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)
You may discern a hint of things to come where your personal ambitions are concerned. Accept advice and support from interested friends.
LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)
A generally auspicious day. This is a period in which to give your finest performance, to capitalize on your many talents — especially in creative endeavor.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)
Day may not seem to hold much opportunity at first, but if you look closely, you will find it has many advantages. Results will be largely up to YOU.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)
Without much planetary assistance, you can still net top returns but, before acting, plan well, be sure of facts and details, and DON'T procrastinate.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
Important now: common sense, logical analysis of all situations, ease of action. Domestic and social interests highly favored. Don't waste time on regrets.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Give mom reason to stop snooping

DEAR ABBY: I'm 13 and I've had it with my mother. She has absolutely no respect for my personal privacy. When I'm gone she goes through my room, and all my belongings and everything I own.

I've never given her any reason not to trust me, but she asks me where I got every penny of my money, who I've been hanging around with and what they're like.

I've asked her to please stop going through my things, but it doesn't do any good. Please help me but don't send your reply in the mail because she reads my mail, too.

OPEN TO THE PUBLIC

DEAR ABBY: Violating one's reasonable privacy at any age breeds disrespect, but try to see your mother's side of it. Parents are responsible for their underage children, and your mother is apparently a little nervous about you. Continue to give her no reason to mistrust you, and eventually her confidence will grow and her suspicions cease.

DEAR ABBY: There is a little girl in our neighborhood who likes to bite our children. My children have been bitten by her several times and I am tired of it. I have heard that a human bite can be more serious than a dog's bite. Is that true?

CONCERNED
DEAR CONCERNED: Yes. If the skin has been broken, the victim should be protected against infection by a tetanus shot. Also, antibiotics are recommended, depending on the severity of the bite. A human bite CAN be more serious than an animal bite.

DEAR ABBY: I am married and am the father of two children who are both in grade school.

For seven years I have been seeing (and for the most part supporting) a beautiful woman and her two school-age children, who are not mine. (I made it clear from the start that I was married, and divorcing my wife was out of the question.)

This woman has decided that we should not see each other anymore because she wants to get married, and her children need a father. I happen to agree with her, but there's one thing we do not agree on. She thinks I should continue to send her checks until she finds a job or a man to support herself and her children. She says that's the least I can do for her.

I say if we stop seeing each other, we stop the whole thing including the money. She says she can't get along without my financial support, and if I discontinue it while she is in need she will tell all to my wife.

I would feel like a fool sending her money, but it would crush my wife and ruin my marriage if I were ever found out.

I know I've had my cake and eaten it too all these years, but I need your sound advice.

WITHHOLD MY NAME

DEAR WITHHOLD: Anyone who is threatened with blackmail, and has as much to lose as you apparently have, should run-not walk-to his lawyer.

Professor takes art to working people

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — A maid probably doesn't have much opportunity to discuss her views on art while she cleans the washrooms and makes the beds in a hotel.

And the local filling station attendant isn't expected to be able to carry on a conversation about the fine arts while he changes the oil in his customer's car.

But Prof. Don Celender of the Macalester College art department decided that the views of the average working person might be of interest.

So the professor and a team of students talked with 400 blue collar workers, including maids, clerks, mechanics, bus and truck drivers, cab drivers, secretaries, hotel desk clerks, waitresses, carpenters and street laborers, as they went about their daily tasks.

Their opinions were written up in the study "Opinions of Working People Concerning Art," which was sent to the O.K. Harris Gallery in New York City. Celender said the survey has drawn varied reactions from art critics and the public, including some who have hailed it as the first "tell it like it is" audience "pulse-feeler" done by the art world in a long time.

Generally, Celender said, the workers interviewed believed that art is necessary to the enjoyment, fulfillment and pleasure of living. A majority also think that tax money should be used to fund artists and art projects, he said.

They are wary about going to art museums and galleries because of what they conceive as the highbrow atmosphere, he said, but nearly all of those questioned visit a museum at least once a year.

Picasso, Dali and Chagall turn a majority of the workers off, and they don't "dig" abstract, modernist and surrealist paintings or sculptures, the study showed.

However, if they could, they would buy as much art for their own enjoyment as they could afford.

"What I wanted to do in this survey is find out whether the man and woman on the street was as square and oblivious to visual arts as the trite and stereotype images we have been given," Celender said.

"We found that contrary to the general belief, they like art, enjoy it, feel it worthwhile, know much more than we give them credit for...and, of course, we discovered what we should have known all along: that most of them dabble in it themselves, as Sunday painters or collectors of everything from antiques to Ming vases, and coins, stamps — which, after all, are a form of art."

As a bartender told one interviewer: "Art brings most of us closer to what we really are and what we feel."

"She's playing hard to get rid of!"

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — A few years ago, public TV aired a controversial documentary series, "An American Family," showing the gradual breakup of the William Loud family of Santa Barbara, Calif.

On April 4, the Public Broadcasting Service starts a six-part documentary effort, "Six American Families," each clan interviewed at a three-weeks-per-family rate by free-lance writer Paul Wilkes.

But don't consider this an attempt to depict the happiest families of America since, as Wilkes jokingly puts it, "we didn't try to purge the country of Loudism" when filming began in May 1975.

Wilkes, the series' host and writer, says the show simply aimed at recording — with no point of view — the lives and thoughts of a cross-section of America, six families in six regions.

They range from a Polish-American blue collar family in Chicago to a Jewish, upper middle-class tribe torn by marital discord in Mill Valley, Calif. Each family show appears on succeeding weeks.

A unique show, but "Families" is unique in another way. PBS says this is the first time one of its series will appear both on public and commercial TV in the same week, although on different nights.

The commercial airings will be in San Francisco, Boston, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Baltimore on stations owned by the Group W chain, which put up most of the loot — $800,000, Wilkes says — to make the series.

Another $200,000, he says, came from the United Church of Christ and the United Methodist Church, with an equal amount in a grant from the Travelers Insurance Companies for the series' public TV telecasts.

Wilkes, 38, who says he comes from a large, working-class family in Cleveland, says "Families" is an outgrowth of a book he wrote about a New Jersey family with whom he lived a year as an observer.

The Group W troops asked him, he said, to put his one-family chronicling techniques to work in a documentary about a number of families "to show what's going on in this country, what people are about." They backed their idea with bucks.

And Wilkes, who used four documentary teams at different times, set off to work, gaining access to the families he chose with the help of church, civic and neighborhood groups.

The filming of each family was done, he said, with the understanding "that if they didn't want us to film something they should tell us." Such telling occasionally occurred, he added, citing one example.

The charge for Directory Assistance is easy to avoid. Here's how.

If you remember to look in your phone book, chances are you'll rarely if ever have to pay a Directory Assistance charge.

Because there will be some numbers not listed in your directory, there is a monthly allowance of 3 calls to Directory Assistance anywhere within your area code. For each call after that, you'll be charged 20¢.

Other ways to avoid the Directory Assistance Charge.

- If a friend or business has moved recently, call their old number. An intercept operator will give you the new number at no extra charge. This service is offered for at least 45 days after a residence customer has moved and 12 months after a business has moved.
- If you regularly call unknown telephone numbers in another city within your area code, call your service representative. We'll see that you get the directory for that city at no charge.
- Remember that you can request 2 numbers on any Directory Assistance call.
- Make a list of frequently called numbers and keep them near the phone. If you do have to call Directory Assistance, write the number down for future use. Your service representative will be glad to send you an Ohio Bell personal directory for listing numbers.

And calls made from coin phones, hospitals, skilled nursing homes, and a home where a resident is physically unable* to use a phone directory are exempt from all Directory Assistance charges. There is also no charge for Directory Assistance calls outside your area code.

The reason for a Directory Assistance charge is simple. We don't want you to pay for a service you don't use. Last year, most of the calls to Directory Assistance were made by only a very small part of the public. But we all shared the costs. Now, that's changed. Now, those persons who use Directory Assistance the most will pay for it.

Since this charging program has been in effect, only about 10% of all customers have been charged. So, remember to look in the book. Chances are you'll never have to pay a Directory Assistance charge.

*To apply for a physical handicap exemption from charges for Directory Assistance calls, just call the Ohio Bell business office.

Appeals court frees two commissioners

IRONTON, Ohio (AP) — Two Lawrence County commissioners were free today after enduring brief jail stays for contempt of court in refusing to sign purchase orders for the county's juvenile and probate judge.

Common Pleas Court Judge Lloyd Burwell on Monday ordered the men to jail until they signed purchase orders for $1,000 in supplies that the judge requested.

Commission President W.H. Kaiser and member Mark Malone were jailed for two hours before they were freed by order of the 4th Court of Appeals in Steubenville. No hearing was set on the commissioners' appeal of the contempt finding.

A third member of the board, Louis Bryant, was held not in contempt after he stated he would sign the purchase orders.

Two of the three commission members must sign purchase orders to validate them.

The two who refused told the judge they did so because he allegedly had not followed proper purchasing methods. They said he ordered the equipment and supplies before taking office office Jan. 3.

"I don't have to follow your procedures," the judge replied at the contempt hearing.

"You've got to pay these bills whether I do it backwards, forwards or in between. There is nothing that says I have to be polite about it," the judge added.

Burglar proves he has heart

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — One of the robbers who held a family at bay while ransacking their suburban Detroit home this weekend had heart — he paused to feed a crying infant before leaving.

Three or four men wearing ski masks burst into the home Saturday, bound three family members with telephone cords, placed bedsheets over them and searched the house for some 40 minutes, Southfield police said.

When a 6-month-old boy woke up crying, one of the bandits asked the family where the baby's bottle was kept, warmed it, and fed the infant, said the family, which asked not to be identified.

Mrs. Loudner chapter hostess

Mrs. Ray Loudner was hostess for the March business-social meeting of the Alpha Theta Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority. Members were reminded of the joint meeting with Beta Omega Chapter on March 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Lester Bower. Posters for the benefit dance featuring the Bandians to be held Saturday, April 16th at the Mahan Building, will be made and other arrangements for the dance will be finalized.

Mrs. Fred Zechman, chairman for the Bike Ride to benefit St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital, announced the ride will be held on Sunday, May 1. Other information pertaining to the ride will be available soon.

Bride-elect Miss Sholler guest of honor

Mrs. Robert Weber and daughter, Kathy, Mrs. Ralph Marcy and daughters Cheryl, Cynthia and Coleen were hostesses at a bridal shower honoring Miss Linda Sholler, bride-elect of David A. Arnold.

Invited guests were Mrs. Kenneth Sholler and Mrs. George Arnold, mothers of the betrothed couple, Mrs. Arthur Humbert of Newark, grandmother of the prospective groom, Mrs. Frank Doench and daughter Andrea of Dayton; Mrs. Robert Elliott of Springfield; and Miss Marianne Arnold, Mrs. Alan Wilt, Mrs. Samuel Hedges, Miss Lorie Sholler, Mrs. Robert Blake, Mrs. Barton Montgomery, Miss Jan Montgomery, Mrs. Ray Jinks and daughter Debbie, Mrs. Robert Rowland, Mrs. Robert Staybrook, Mrs. Jack Montgomery, Mrs. Mike Maust, Mrs. James Jenkins and Mrs. Jerry Junk.

The table, laid with a yellow cloth, was enhanced with miniature white parasols, and centered with a milk glass full of daisies and ivy, which was presented to the guest of honor. Wedding bells with streamers in spring colors accented the chair from which Miss Sholler opened her lovely gifts.

In lieu of games, guests gave the honor guest their favorite recipes, and the hostesses presented her with a wooden recipe file.

A dessert course of cake and punch, with mints and nuts were served to the guests. The cake was decorated with the bride-elect's favorite flower, the daisy.

Feet, Important?

How important are the feet? One could be facetious and say, "Try walking without them," but it's really no joking matter. Break, or otherwise disable a hand, and you can still get around, dress yourself, wash, shave, eat — do most normal things. But break or disable a foot, and the going is really rough. Just picture the people you have seen using crutches, a walker, or wheelchair, and you realize how limited they are at enjoying most of the pleasures of mobility. That's how important feet are.

How many mature people — 40 and older — have feet in good enough condition to run, jump, play tennis, badminton, volleyball, etc? One criteria for a full life for the elderly certainly is healthy feet. Conscientious shoe-fitting throughout life is that important.

Daughters of 1812 to meet March 21 in Zimmerman home

The March meeting of the Major Samuel Myers Chapter, Daughters of 1812, will be held at 2 p.m. March 21 in the home of Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, Haigler Rd. This is a change of date due to a conflict with the State DAR Conference. This will be a business meeting when final plans will be made for the State Conference to be held in Chillicothe March 28, 29 and 30.

The Major Samuel Myers Chapter will co-hostesses with the Duncan McArthur Chapter for the convention. Both chapter members are urged to attend, especially on March 29 for the luncheon and banquet. Headquarters will be at the Holiday Inn, U. S. Rt. 23-N.

A very interesting program has been arranged for both sessions. The publicity department for Tecumseh will narrate and show slides of this most fascinating drama accompanied by music from the production.

Mrs. Willard Bitzer and Mrs. Deane Powell were recent luncheon guests of Mrs. Beatrice MacBride at the Chillicothe Country Club where final plans for the convention were made. Information regarding reservations will be available soon.

The March meeting will also include the Memorial Service for deceased members and reports of the nominating and budget committees.

The assisting hostesses will be Mrs. John Case, Mrs. Henry Engle, Mrs. Worley Melvin, Mrs. Karl Kellenberger, Mrs. Harry Campbell, Mrs. Thomas Parrett and Mrs. Gerrie Sprague. The time is 2 p.m.

Twin Oaks Club holds meeting

Mrs. Harold Bonecutter was hostess for the March meeting of the Twin Oaks Garden Club. Mrs. Dana Kellenberger opened the meeting with a poem entitled, "Blue Jay." Each gave a favorite seed catalogue during roll call.

Mrs. Bonecutter was appointed to secure a book for the Carnegie Public Library, and a thank you from the 4-H Awards committee was read. The group voted to give a donation of $15.00 for a gardening trophy for the 1977 Fayette County Fair. A supper was planned for March 15 by members and a workshop for May 12 at the Fish and Game Lodge.

Mrs. Charles Blizzard read a clipping from the Greenfield Times announcing Mrs. Margaret Mercer of Greenfield, as first runner-up for her flower arrangement at the American Guild of Flower Arrangers Seminar held at Bill Watson's International Inn in Tampa Florida in February. She entered a modern art design, and was one of 40 designs displayed. Mrs. Mercer is a member of the Greenfield Garden Club.

Mrs. Bonecutter showed slides of a recent trip to Hawaii, and a salad and dessert course was served to Mrs. Kellenberger, Mrs. Harold Bonecutter, Mrs. Virgil Garinger, Mrs. Wilbur Hoppes, Mrs. James Braun, Mrs. Charles Blizzard, Mrs. Joe Bonham, Mrs. Eugene Thompson and Mrs. Walter Boyer, a guest.

WHAT IS THAT? — Jill Persinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Persinger looks in awe at the late 18th Century brass bird cage, and other items which were on display and for sale at the Antique Show and Country Crafts for Cancer Booth held the past weekend at the Mahan Building.

Phi Beta Psi has Antique Show and Country Crafts for Cancer

A new attendance record of 1600 people was set at Phi Beta Psi's 6th Annual Antiques Show and Sale over the weekend in the Mahan Building. Twenty-three dealers from five states exhibited and sold a wide assortment of antique items representative of America's history ranging from an early 18th Century Mammy's Bench to a sterling chiming pocket watch.

Volunteer donors to the American Cancer Society's Country Crafts for Cancer Booth gave the Cancer Crusade an early Kick-Off by raising in excess of $1200.00. 1977 marks the 4th year for the Craft Booth which has become a popular local feature of the Show enabling cooks and craft oriented people to contribute their time and talent toward the fight against Cancer.

Mrs. Norman Moore's name was drawn as winner of the door prize, a primitive crock. The ripple patterned afghan designed and donated by Mrs. Will Braun to the Cancer Craft Booth was won by Mrs. Ervin Miller. Proceeds from the Show are distributed among the Sorority's philanthropic projects: college scholarships, community fund drives, delegates to Buckeye Girls' State and the Sorority National Project — Cancer Research.

Patrons contributing to the success of the Exhibition were: Risch Pharmacy, Frisch's Big Boy Restaurant, French's Hardware Store, Richard R. Willis Insurance, Kirk Auto Parts, Birch Rice Home Furnishings, Kirks Furniture of Wash. C.H.

The overall chairman of the show was Mrs. Robby Hagler assisted by Mrs. Jim Cunningham, Mrs. Elsa Woodmansee, Mrs. Mark Schaeper, Mrs. John Bryant, Mrs. Wayne King, Mrs. Donald P. Woods and Mrs. Paul Johnson. The Country Crafts for Cancer Booth was handled by Mrs. Ralph Gebhart assisted by Mrs. Max Schlichter and Mrs. William Hendren. Mr. Mark Boultinghouse and Mr. Ron Hall of Country Squire Antiques in Lexington, Kentucky were the Show Managers. Mrs. Birch Rice is the Sorority's Active Chapter President.

Hot chocolate is a good warming, nourishing beverage

WASHINGTON, D.C. — More and more Americans are discovering an appealing new beverage. It's great at breakfast, after dinner or as a snack. The only trouble is, it's not all that new.

The Aztecs have known about this beverage for centuries! Ferdinand and Isabella heard about it from Columbus. And the very rich in Europe in seventeenth and eighteenth century knew about it.

What is it? Hot cocoa or hot chocolate. It's available in a variety of forms for contemporary Americans who have long since made chocolate their favorite flavor.

There's a choice of cocoa, instant cocoa, hot chocolate mixes, instant chocolate drinks. The various types also offer consumers considerable price selection. Some need only the addition of hot water to make a delightful cup of hot chocolate; others are made with the addition of warm milk; and for the purists there's hot cocoa made the old-fashioned way.

The instant mixes can be made easily right in the cup or mug, following the package instruction. Milk can be substituted for water to make a richer beverage. There are many advantages to using an instant mix — it's quick, it makes just the amount needed and there's no clean-up.

When using the instants, flavor will be enhanced by using a small wire whisk to beat it rapidly just before serving. Garnishing with marshmallow, whipped cream, frozen topping or sprinkles of cinnamon adds even more luxury.

To make an occasion special, nothing does it with quite the flair of freshly-made hot cocoa, one of the very few affordable luxuries left.

HOT COCOA

1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon cocoa
1/2 cup sugar
Dash salt
6 cups milk
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

In a large saucepan, mix together cocoa, sugar and salt. Stir in a small amount of milk to make a smooth paste; then, stir in remaining milk. Heat the mixture over medium-low heat, stirring occasionally. When tiny bubbles start to form around the edge of the pan, remove from heat. Do not boil. Add vanilla and beat with a hand beater or whisk until cocoa is smooth and foamy.

Makes: 6 cups.

To cut down on clean-up, fill the pan with cold water as soon as the cocoa has been served.

For an after dinner beverage or for a snack, add whipped cream topping and sprinkle with chocolate curls. A slice of orange peel, a dash of nutmeg or any of the fruit-flavored brandies add yet other dimensions to chocolate's outstanding flavor.

For a change-of-pace beverage that adds extra satisfaction, nothing comes close to hot cocoa.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Blessing and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Blessing attended the golden wedding anniversary celebration for Mr. and Mrs. Russell Ross of Hillsboro on Sunday, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Ferguson near New Market. Additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. Allen Blessing of Columbus.

CUB SCOUTS PACK 157

The Cub Scouts in Pack 157 of New Holland held the annual Pinewood Derby in the New Holland United Methodist Church.

Winners in the Derby were Lamar Root — Den 1; Duane Litteral — Den 3; Alan Campbell — Den 4; and Webbs — Jimmy Rowland. Winners received patches to wear on their uniforms. The all-over winner was Alan Campbell who also received a Pinewood Derby trophy.

The cub master is Aaron Shipley. All 23 boys in the pack participated in the annual event. Den mothers and den dads assisting the boys were Sue Root, Monica Shipley, Eleanor Bishop, Janice Newton, Nelson Doyle, Larry Root and Virgil Johnson.

Next month is the Blue and Gold Banquet, and on April 2 the group is going to attend a circus in Columbus.

Control board aids freeze victims

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Board of Regents will pay $25,000 to a Washington law firm to lobby Congress over the next 3½ months on behalf of higher education in Ohio, under a contract narrowly approved by the Controlling Board.

The controllers on Monday also released $1.2 million to 24 Ohio communities that suffered damages to their water systems during the severe weather of the past two months.

In a 4-3 party line vote, majority Democrats on the board agreed to the regents' request to waive competitive bidding and contract the firm of Ragan and Mason.

James V. Stanton of Cleveland, a member of the firm, will be paid $75 an hour under the contract for his services, according to Regents Chancellor James A. Norton.

"Mr. Stanton is a good communicator on the Hill," Norton said of the ex-congressman who lost the Democratic Senate primary election last June to Sen. Howard Metzenbaum.

"We have a series of projects on which he is working."

Republican board members said the contract should include more specifics on the extent of services expected from the firm. However, an amendment by Rep. Ben Rose, R-44 Lima, to require at least 300 hours of work from Ragan and Mason under terms of the pact, died for want of a second.

Rep. A. G. Lancione, D-95 Bellaire, who voted reluctantly in favor of the arrangement, said, "this seems to be the type of thing that we ought to be entitled to get free."

Environmental Protection Agency Director Ned Williams won unanimous support for the water grant which he said would be used for "repair and replacing water mains and services lines," mostly in small towns.

"The communities listed have expanded their yearly budgets and funds are not available to maintain the systems without emergency assistance," Williams said. "Continued disruption can result in serious health problems, if it is not corrected."

The board also released $84,369 to the Ohio National Guard for snow removal operations in January and February and $19,368 for the guard's efforts in providing water supplies to Washingtonville, near Youngstown, one of the communities receiving state reimbursement.

Glancing ahead to the summer fair season, the control panel authorized the Ohio Expositions Commission to enter into a financing agreement with the Ohio Building Authority for improvements of up to $5 million at the State Fairgrounds.

The projects will include work on the Fairgrounds Coliseum and an expansion of the outdoor grandstand where major entertainment attractions are presented.

Agriculture Director John Stackhouse said the severe winter weather and the general rundown condition of some facilities necessitated the work before the opening of this year's fair in August.

Communities receiving water grants are: Amsterdam, $10,150; Archbold, $7,000; Blanchester, $20,000; Cardington, $6,000; Clyde, $13,156; Coalton, $3,000; Corning, $2,400; Crooksville, $50,000; Dennison, $41,857; Fostoria, $11,323; Georgetown, $2,000; Glouster, $1,700; Leetonia, $1,000; Nelsonville, $30,429; Oak Hill, $21,984; Peebles,

$20,000; Somerset, $1,000; Trumbull County, $9,277; Uhrichsville, $84,860; Washingtonville, $170,360; Weston, $5,000; West Milton, $205,562; Williamsburg, $20,226, and Yellow Springs, $38,000.

The board deferred a request by Bowling Green State University for $80,000 to buy furniture for the renovated Graduate Center.

Sen. William F. Bowen, D-9 Cincinnati, who said the tables and chairs favored by the university were too expensive, told a BGSU representative to check listings of the Ohio Penal Institute before returning with a new request.

In other action, the controllers:

—Released $160,000 for conversion of the State Office Tower to hot water, steam heating.

—Waived competitive bidding for the Environmental Protection Agency to sign a $45,000 contract with the Maumee Valley Resource Conservation Development and Planning Organization of Defiance for an area water quality management plan.

—Released $70,000 to Mental Health and Mental Retardation for Massillon State Hospital to purchase new hospital beds and a suction and oxygen system.

—Released $438,769 for a power plant expansion project at the Toledo Mental Health Center.

—Approved a $15,000 contract between the Department of Natural Resources and Lantz Hills of Mansfield for feed mixing services at Malabar State Farm.

—Approved a $49,720 purchase by DNR of 72 acres in Columbiana County for Beaver Creek State Park.

—Approved a $57,200 purchase by DNR of 527 acres in Champaign County for Cedar Bog natural area.

—Released $130,106 as additional funding for a nursing home project at the Ohio Soldiers & Sailors Home in Sandusky.

By The Associated Press
Clear skies overnight let temperatures fall below freezing across Ohio, but those readings were expected to be the end of the sub-freezing weather for awhile.

Much warmer weather was heading for the state as a ridge of high pressure now over Ohio moved slowly eastward and was replaced by a warm southerly flow.

Most of the state was expected to reach the 50s today, climbing into the 60s to around 70 Wednesday and Thursday. There is a near zero chance of rain today and tonight. Probabilities will increase Wednesday and Thursday as the southerly winds bring in moisture from the Gulf of Mexico.

Thursday through Saturday: Unseasonably warm with a chance of showers daily. Highs in the 60s Thursday and from the upper 40s north to the upper 50s south by Saturday. Overnight lows in the 40s.

Sheraton Gibson demolition starts

CINCINNATI (AP) — The "no vacancy" sign is out at the Sheraton Gibson Hotel.

Soon, the condition will be permanent. The hotel is being demolished within the next six months to make way for a new office and hotel complex in downtown Cincinnati.

Work is scheduled to begin this week to knock down other buildings in the area.

The 68-year-old hotel used to be a focal point for city life, from its location opposite Fountain Square.

In July of 1968, the eyes of the nation were on the Sheraton Gibson Hotel where governors gathered for the National Governors Conference.

Now those rooms—once occupied by the likes of Ronald Reagan and Spiro Agnew—are occupied by piles of plaster.

Little remains in the Gibson, which closed in July 1974 because of what Sheraton officials described at the time as "economic" factors.

The public picked over the items of worth during a public sale which lasted about three months.

The heavier fixtures have been stripped and carted away.

Meanwhile, no room, no suite, no hallway nor ballroom has escaped the deterioration at the Gibson. Marble and brass have been removed from pillars and stairways in the lobby. Ceilings have caved in.

Whatever difference once existed between the most pedestrian of the hotel's 1,000 rooms and the most luxurious suite now is indistinguishable.

"You can't tell one room from another," said an official of Cleveland Wrecking Co.

The Cincinnati Reds hosted officials of the National and American Leagues in July 1970, at a dinner held in the ballroom on the floor above the mezzanine.

Winter stays in northwest

By The Associated Press
Winter was still a problem in the Pacific Northwest today with a winter storm warning posted over western Oregon and locally heavy snows expected in the Cascade Mountains.

Strong winds and high seas raised the threat of coastal flooding through western Washington and Oregon today as the storm system pushed inland. Gale force winds produced sea swells of 16 to 22 feet and brought tides up two to three feet above normal.

Rain was scattered along the northern Pacific Coast and extended into the northern Rockies with scattered snow at higher elevations.

Rainshowers and occasional snow flurries continued in New England. But showers over south Florida disappeared soon after midnight.

Heavier rainfall in the six hours ending at one a.m. EST included nearly half an inch at Brookings, Ore., and Crescent City, Calif., and a quarter-inch at Eugene and Portland, Ore., and Tacoma, Wash.

Skies were nearly cloudless from the Southwest through the Southeast, as well as from the Plains through the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 21 at Alamosa, Colo., to 68 at Homestead and Key West, Fla.

Urge energy teaching

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, says the nation's schools should teach energy conservation with the other facts of life.

Addressing the legislative conference here of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers (PTA), Glenn said more study by young people of energy and its history could increase fuel conservation.

"The nation's schools could play a powerful role in shaping a conservation ethic among our young people," the Ohio Democrat said.

"The great majority of our young people today have never known want. They were born after the Great Depression and the Second World War," Glenn said.

"They have been taught to consume rather than to conserve. Reversing that pattern offers everyone—including educators—an enormous challenge during the remainder of the 1970s and 80s," he added.

"If fuel is to govern this nation's progress, as well as the entire world's, then energy as an issue deserves a spot in the nation's curriculum. It could be treated as an interdisciplinary subject that combines economics, government, science.

"By stressing energy and its complexities, we can guard against the possibility of raising yet another generation of national leaders and citizens that see Energy as nothing but a filling station and a periodic utility bill."

The fourth constitutional convention to modernize Ohio's constitution was held in 1912.— AP

Denen heads ALL-SCOL first team list

John Denen-WCH (Captain)

Gary Williams-Wil.

Art Schlichter-MT

By MARK REA
Record-Herald Sports Editor

Washington C.H.'s John Denen leads this year's all-South Central Ohio League selections in basketball.

Denen received the most number of votes from the panel of the seven SCOL coaches to be named honorary captain of the 1976-77 ALL-SCOL team.

Denen, just a junior, holds almost every career rebounding record at Washington C.H. and has led the team to its present 17-3 mark this season.

Following Denen in the balloting was Wilmington's Gary Williams. Williams, like Denen, is a 6-foot-3 junior.

Williams has been one of the main factors in Wilmington's rise to the top of the SCOL this season. The Hurricane holds a 15-3 record but has remained perfect in the SCOL with an 11-0 record.

Third in this year's voting was yet another 6-3 junior, Art Schlichter of Miami Trace. Schlichter has led the league in scoring for most of the season with a 24.2 overall average minus tourney competition and a 23.7 average in the league.

Fourth in balloting was Hillsboro's Tim Fuller. Fuller follows suit with the first three at 6-foot-3 but Fuller is a senior.

Fuller also had his turn at leading the league in scoring this season and finished with a 21-6 average. He was also a top rebounder for the Indians, averaging 15 rebounds a game.

Fifth is a teammate of Williams at Wilmington. Tony Berlin, a 6-2 senior, came back from a head injury midway through the season to become one of the league's top scorers.

Rounding out the first team is Eric Dunson of Greenfield McClain. Dunson is a 6-1 senior.

Dunson was the mainstay for the Tigers all season as he constantly scored in double figures. He averaged 18.5 points a game throughout the season and 12.8 rebounds each game.

Dee Hart Foster and Dan Gifford were the Fayette County players chosen on the second team.

Circleville led the second team picks with two members chosen. Frank Merrill and Brent Wright were each selected from the Tigers.

Doug Sifrit of Madison Plains and David Nared of Wilmington round out the second team.

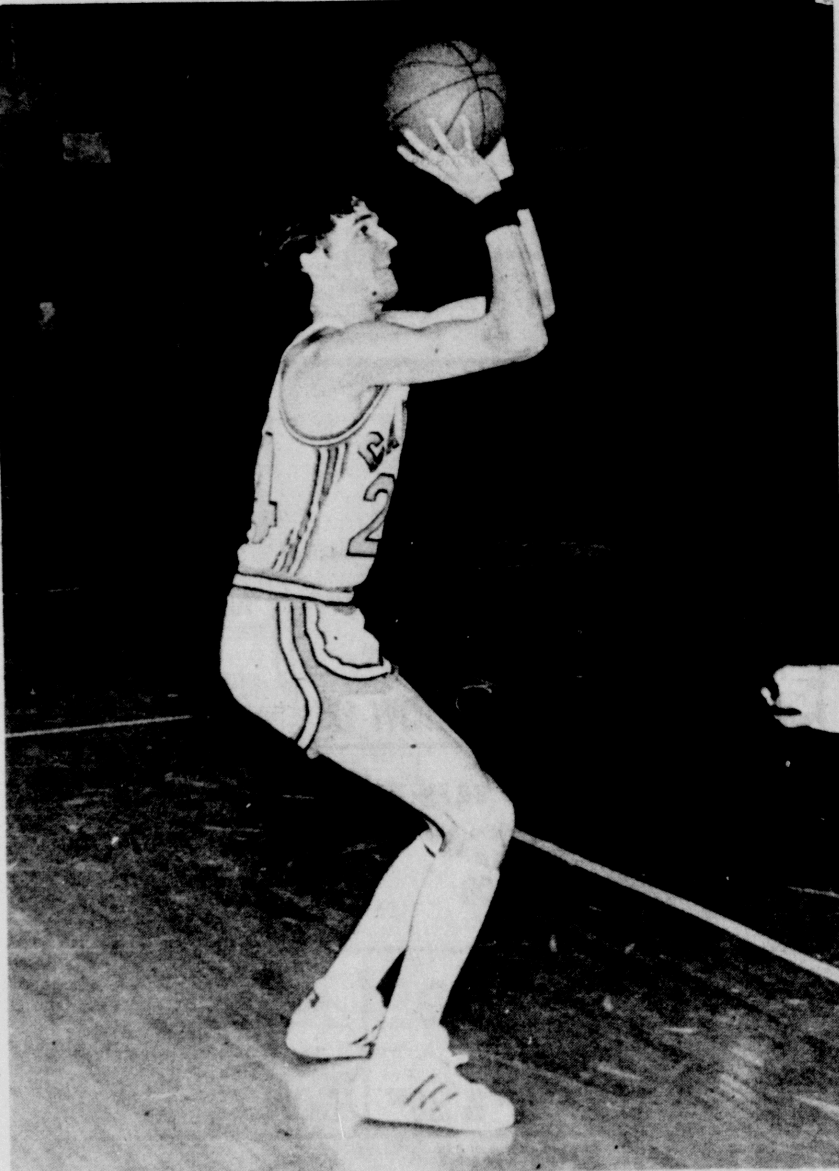

Earning honorable mention this season are Sam McClendon and Tom Dean from Washington C.H., Bill Hanners from Miami Trace, Toren

Johnson wins college MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Marques Johnson sweated and fretted.

"It was hell, I stayed up until three o'clock in the morning before I made a decision," he says.

The day was last June 7 and the decision was to turn down a professional basketball contract.

It proved to be a good decision —

fateful, in fact — because had Johnson turned pro last year, he would not have had the chance to become college basketball's most applauded player of 1976-77.

Johnson gained the Adolph Rupp Trophy Monday as The Associated Press Player of the Year, outscoring the rest of the field by a wide margin.

Blind man eyes Reds on radio

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The radio brings Wayne Ryan the world he loves best.

By turning on the transistor radio that hangs by a strap over his shoulder, Ryan is constantly in touch with the goings on of the Cincinnati Reds.

Ryan is one of the team's biggest fans, and his affection for baseball is not dampened by the fact that he has been blind since he was five years old.

"Did you see that hit!" he will shout. "He really whacked that one!"

Ryan's baseball eyes these days are radio broadcasters Marty Brennaman and Joe Nuxhall, who have allowed him to sit in the broadcast booth during spring training games.

No injuries reported

Driver misses deer hits sign, culvert

A deer made driving difficult for Larry L. Coil, 30, of 2729 Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, Monday morning.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported that Coil was driving his car east on Armbrust Road when a deer leaped a fence on the north side of the road. Coil applied his brakes to avoid hitting the animal and went off the right side of the road.

Coil's auto missed the deer, but hit a traffic sign and a culvert. He was not injured in the 8:45 a.m. mishap.

John A. Ernst's motorcycle was heavily damaged, but he escaped injury in a two-vehicle accident in the 600 block of E. Elm St. at 7:15 p.m. Monday.

The Washington C.H. Police Department reported that Ernst, 20, of 314 E. Paint St., was attempting to pass a car driven by Jerry R. Crawford, 32, of 421 Eastern Ave. The Crawford car reportedly had its left turn signal on and struck Ernst and his motorcycle while making a left turn into a private drive.

Clinic operations outlined

Mental health services topic at local meeting

Local mental health services were explained to members of the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club at their regular weekly dinner meeting Monday night in the Terrace Lounge.

Miss Jo Ann Fessler, who is associated with the Scioto-Paint Valley Mental Health Center in Chillicothe, provided the program for Kiwanians.

Miss Fessler explained that 1963 federal legislation provided funds that created community mental health service based in communities where it is needed rather than requiring individuals to seek the services in more populated areas.

Presently, a psychiatrist, a psychiatric nurse and Miss Fessler spend two days per week in the new Washington C.H. clinic which is located in a wing of Fayette County Memorial Hospital.

The local clinic began providing mental health services in December to five persons and at the present time the case load is 51 persons. In the near future, Miss Fessler said, the clinic staff will be in Washington C.H. on a full-time basis.

Referrals to the clinic are made by the health, welfare and children's services departments, schools, courts and even individuals themselves.

A drug abuse specialist is available and the clinic is prepared to cope with any kind of mental health problem, she said. The clinic also provides "after care" to clients who have previously been institutionalized.

She said the present age range of clients is from 9 to 73.

The meeting was conducted by club president Tom Moesbarger who reminded members of the ladies night meeting on March 14. Miss Midge Dewitt will speak on "Lovers I Have Known."

A two-year perfect attendance pin was presented to Norman Armbrust by Gerald Begin.

Guests were James Oughterson with Ronald Lott and Lowell Lively with Begin.

Bowling alley owner slain

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — A bowling alley proprietor was the victim of a 25-year old death threat early Monday. He was gunned down in the same location his father was nearly 30 years ago—and at nearly the same hour.

Harry George Zavakos, 56, was killed in an ambush by someone behind a tree who shot him as he entered his home, according to police.

Zavakos had been threatened with death in 1952, five years after his father George was killed on May 24, 1947. He was told by an anonymous caller, "You are going to die the same way as your father did."

Minor Sorber, who was executed for another murder, confessed to the slaying of the elder Zavakos in 1954 while on death row.

Co-owner of the Varsity Bowling Lanes, Zavakos had closed the business Monday shortly after midnight. He was entering his home after work when he was shot. Police said his death apparently was caused by a single bullet.

Father and son were shot within 10 minutes of 1 a.m. in apparent ambush attacks in front of the same house. Both were in their late 50s. Police ruled out robbery as a motive in both cases.

Traffic Court

Four Fayette County men were found guilty of driving while intoxicated in Washington C.H. Municipal Court Monday.

Guy F. Briggs, 54, of 618 Yeoman St., was fined $300 by Judge John P. Case. He was also sentenced to four days in jail and his operator's license was suspended for six months.

Donald L. Curtis, 35, of 6282 Scioto Farms Road, was fined $250, sentenced to three days in jail, and has his license suspended for 30 days. A charge of driving left of center was dismissed by request of the assistant city solicitor.

Michael L. Young, 22, of 1503 N. North St., was fined $200, three days in jail, and had his license suspended for 30 days.

Billy R. Brown, 23, of 914 N. North St., was fined $250. He received a five day jail sentence, and his operator's license was suspended for six months.

Mona L. Mershon, 54, of 1299 Dayton Ave., forfeited a $500 bond on a driving while intoxicated charge. She also forfeited a $100 bond for a reckless operation charge.

Also in traffic court Monday, a charge of failure to display license was dismissed against Roger Edwards, 21, of 1216 Vanderbilt Drive. Arrested on the charge by city police last month, Edwards' license did not expire until March 3.

A number of other cases were heard in traffic court by Judge Case Monday.

New Holland council receives news on village sewer project

NEW HOLLAND — The New Holland village council received some welcome news concerning its long-awaited sewer project at Monday night's monthly meeting.

Mayor Ed Summers reported that Seico, Inc., the engineering firm working on the project, will submit the final sewage plant plans to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) by the end of this month.

Once the plans are submitted, the EPA will take up to 60 days to issue a final approval, and then work can begin on the multi-million dollar project.

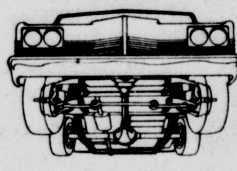

In other discussions Monday, the council members reviewed street repair operations that will be needed after the harsh winter.

In another weather-related matter, council members learned that some village residents are still without water due to frozen pipes. The village's water board was advised to look into getting service restored to these residents.

Clam Shells Used for Roads Over Marshes

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — With the help of two Turkish-born engineers, Louisiana has developed a method of building "floating" highways over marsh as soft as ice cream.

The main ingredient is a lot of clam shells. And Louisiana has a lot of clam shells.

"In 1971 we were just getting involved with relocation of U.S. 90 and needed to come up with a cheap method to cross a marsh," said Ali Kemahli, soil design engineer for the

Gastroscope and Stomach Ulcers

I've had two attacks of stomach ulcers. Now my doctor wants to put a tube down my stomach to examine it. He says if I have another attack he will do it. I'm so frightened. Is this always necessary? — Mrs. K.R., Ga.

Dear Mrs. R.: I'm certain that your doctor explained this procedure to you. Perhaps, in your terror, you did not hear the reassurance that the procedure is a safe and painless one.

The gastroscope is a brilliantly conceived device. When the gastroscope is painlessly passed into the stomach almost every part of the lining of the stomach can be seen.

Pictures can be taken of the lining of the stomach which, when later studied, can make an excellent contribution to the diagnosis of any existing disease.

When necessary, small pieces of tissue can be removed (biopsy) for microscopic examination. The contents of the stomach can be withdrawn. The fluid is then studied for the presence of bile, blood, digestive juices and hydrochloric acid.

With this technique, much valuable information is added to that already accumulated by X-ray studies of the stomach and the upper intestines.

Many people owe their lives to the early recognition of existing conditions of the stomach that might otherwise have been missed, without the use of the gastroscope.

My husband finally gave up smoking cigarettes and has switched to a pipe. I hope you can tell me that pipe tobacco is as bad as cigarette tobacco. I'm about ready to lose my mind with the accidental burns and the smoke. — Mrs. E.W., Mich.

Dear Mrs. W.: The toxic effects of pipe tobacco are considered somewhat less than those of cigarettes. But even if we disregard toxicity, there still is the adverse effect on the lungs caused by the smoke itself.

All smoke is a pollutant and, as such, affects the free and easy exchange of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the lungs.

Pipe smokers and cigar smokers fill a room with smoke and odors that are becoming more and more intolerable to non-smokers. Public Health officials warn that all smoke from all tobacco can, over a long period of time, be hazardous not only to the smoker, but to those who are exposed to it.

Opening lead — king of clubs.

Bridge is much more a game of inference and logic than of mathematics. Declarer can often deduce the precise nature of the unseen hands by basing his reasoning on what the defenders either did or did not do during the bidding or play.

Here is a fine example of good card reading. West leads the king of clubs and continues with the ace. Declarer ruffs in dummy and loses a trump finesse to West's king. Back comes a trump won by South with the jack.

Declarer thereupon plays the ace and another spade, finessing the ten! When the ten wins, South discards all his diamonds on dummy's spades and so makes five hearts doubled. Without the finesse he goes down one.

How in the world can South possibly be smart enough to finesse the spade? Is he just lucky, or is there a sound basis for the unusual finesse? The answer is that South knows the finesse will win. He reaches this conclusion by correctly interpreting the opponents' bidding and play.

Let's see what South knows about West's hand when he reaches the point of decision at trick six. Declarer's only sure knowledge of West's distribution is that West had precisely two hearts.

But South can also rationally conclude that West would have led a diamond at either trick two or trick four — if he had one — and his failure to do so proves that he is void of diamonds. Furthermore, since East raised clubs during the bidding, showing at least three-card support, it follows that West — who has two hearts and no diamonds — has neither more nor less than seven clubs and hence must have precisely four spades. No other distribution is possible.

At this point one questions the direction the photography hobby is headed. We have often stated that the greatest deterring force to good photography in the hobby area is the consumer magazine. Newsstands abound with photo magazines that promote the gimmick. You see, the gimmick is where the money is, and money is king. The photography annuals are full of gimmick pix rather than the examples of good photographic technique seen in these same books a few years back. It's no wonder the tyro is confused and begins to think that this trash must be good stuff or these books wouldn't be showing it.

There is no shortcut to effective photographic technique and there is no gimmick that will make a good picture or make the beginner an expert overnight. It just doesn't work that way. Sorry about that! The answer for the tyro is to get a sound background in fundamental photographic knowledge and with that knowledge acquire the skill to make good pix. There's no shortcut. If you need help in selecting a good textbook to help you get the info you need, drop in and let us help you get a factual book on the subject.

B'burg farmer wins excellence award

Craig honored at pork banquet

Harry Craig, Jones Road, near Bloomingburg, was recognized as Ohio Pork Industry "excellence award winner" at the Fayette County Pork Producers Association banquet Monday night in the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds.

The pork industry excellence award is presented annually to an Ohio pork producer in recognition for outstanding leadership and contribution to the pork industry. Craig was recognized for his leadership in the organization of the Ohio Pork Producer Council and for his innovative ideas in pork production practices. Craig is a past director of the Ohio Pork Council and past president of the Fayette County Pork Producers Association.

Ron Powers, farm director, of WRFD Radio in Columbus, presented a slide program describing the Craig farming operation and his contributions toward improvement of the swine industry. Powers presented the awards which were to have been presented at the Ohio Pork Congress in February. Craig was snowbound on Jones Road at the time and could not be present. Thus the recognition was provided Monday night.

Powers represented WRFD Radio, the Ohio Pork Council, and the American Cyanimid Corp., co-sponsors of the award.

During the banquet, Richard Wood, chairman of the pork carcass evaluation committee, presented premium awards to the top 15 barrows and gilts in the evaluation. Hogs entered in the carcass evaluation held Feb. 23 were placed according to the percentage of lean cuts.

The top five barrows, with respective lean cuts in parenthesis, were exhibited by Ednabelle Hoppes (67.15 per cent); Albert Mongold (66.12 per cent); Karen Hoppes (65.22 per cent); Rob Donohoe (65.03 per cent); and John Huysman (64.86 per cent).

The top five gilts were exhibited by Jerry Hoppes (76.09 per cent); Lawrence Hoppes (65.48 per cent); John Hiser (65.30 per cent); Jerry Hoppes (64.96 per cent); and Mark Hiser (64.90 per cent).

The pork producers elected the following new directors for two-year terms:

Dave Owens served as master of ceremonies for the banquet. Jerry Hoppes was the banquet chairman.

Beef referendum subject for T-Bone Club meeting

The Beef Research and Information Act which provides for a National Beef Marketing referendum will be the topic of the Fayette County Cattlefeeders Association's T-Bone Club meeting Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. in the Rendezvous Room restaurant.

Pete Everhart, a Pickaway County cattlefeeder, will present the program to explain the background of the referendum and the procedures that will be used. The referendum vote is tentatively scheduled for this spring.

The Beef Research and Information Act is an industry self-help program that enables producers to vote in a referendum to provide a system to finance research, consumer education, producers information, promotion, and market development programs.

To date, over 80 state and national beef and dairy organizations have endorsed the plan. The proposed rate of collection would be three tenths of one per cent of sales value. The collections would be made at each point of sale and would be only on the value added.

Everhart will explain complete details of the program. All Fayette County cattlefeeders and interested agri-businessmen are encouraged to attend the T-Bone meeting.

Vandals damage semi rigs

A vandal with an ice pick expressed his dislike for semi tractor-trailer rigs in Fayette County Monday night.

The Washington C.H. Police Department reported that a rig parked on the Ev's Fine Food parking lot on Columbus Avenue had its radiator and front tires punctured by a sharp object, possibly an ice pick, at 10:30 p.m. Monday.

The rig is owned by the Food Marketing Corp. and the driver, Gene Hamm of Hudson, Ind., made the report.

At approximately the same time, the Fayette County Sheriff's Department received a similar report from a truck driver at Garner's Truck Stop on U.S. 35-NW.

Rodney Miller, Fairborn, told sheriff's deputies that the front wheels of his rig and the radiator were punctured by an ice pick.

The Fayette County Sheriff's Department also investigated a failure to pay incident at Garner's Truck Stop Monday. A driver of a semi tractor-trailer rig had a tire and tube installed on his truck, and then reportedly left without paying.

Deputies are also investigating the theft of three cases of returnable soft drink bottles from the Lee's Motel, 3462 U.S. 62-NE.
